

11/18/2002 Entry: "NSA BACKDOOR IN EVERY MICROSOFT OPERATING SYSTEM"

How NSA access was built into Windows

Duncan Campbell

Careless mistake reveals subversion of Windows by NSA.

A CARELESS mistake by Microsoft programmers has revealed that special access codes prepared by the US National Security Agency have been secretly built into Windows. The NSA access system is built into every version of the Windows operating system now in use, except early releases of Windows 95 (and its predecessors). The discovery comes close on the heels of the revelations earlier this year that another US software giant, Lotus, had built an NSA "help information" trapdoor into its Notes system, and that security functions on other software systems had been deliberately crippled.

The first discovery of the new NSA access system was made two years ago by British researcher Dr. Nicko van Someren. But it was only a few weeks ago when a second researcher rediscovered the access system. With it, he found the evidence linking it to NSA.

Computer security specialists have been aware for two years that unusual features are contained inside a standard Windows software "driver" used for security and encryption functions. The driver, called ADVAPI.DLL, enables and controls a range of security functions. If you use Windows, you will find it in the C:\Windows\system directory of your computer.

ADVAPI.DLL works closely with Microsoft Internet Explorer, but will only run cryptographic functions that the US government allows Microsoft to export. That information is bad enough news, from a European point of view. Now, it turns out that ADVAPI will run special programmes inserted and controlled by NSA. As yet, no-one knows what these programmes are, or what they do.

Dr Nicko van Someren reported at last year's Crypto 98 conference that he had disassembled the ADVADPI driver. He found it contained two different keys. One was used by Microsoft to control the cryptographic functions enabled in Windows, in compliance with US export regulations. But the reason for building in a second key, or who owned it, remained a mystery.

A second key

Two weeks ago, a US security company came up with conclusive evidence that the second key belongs to NSA. Like Dr van Someren, Andrew Fernandez, chief scientist with Cryptonym of Morrisville, North Carolina, had been probing the presence and significance of the two keys. Then he checked the latest Service Pack release for Windows NT4, Service Pack 5. He found that Microsoft's developers had failed to remove or "strip" the debugging symbols used to test this software before they released it. Inside the code were the labels for the two keys. One was called "KEY". The other was called "NSAKEY".

Fernandes reported his re-discovery of the two CAPI keys, and their secret meaning, to "Advances in Cryptology, Crypto'99" conference held in Santa Barbara. According to those present at the conference, Windows developers attending the conference did not deny that the "NSA" key was built into their software. But they refused to talk about what the key did, or why it had been put there without users' knowledge.

A third key?!

But according to two witnesses attending the conference, even Microsoft's top crypto programmers were astonished to learn that the version of ADVAPI.DLL shipping with Windows 2000 contains not two, but three keys. Brian LaMachia, head of CAPI development at Microsoft was "stunned" to learn of these discoveries, by outsiders. The latest discovery by Dr van Someren is based on advanced search methods which test and report on the "entropy" of programming code.

Within the Microsoft organisation, access to Windows source code is said to be highly compartmentalized, making it easy for modifications to be inserted without the knowledge of even the respective product managers.

Researchers are divided about whether the NSA key could be intended to let US government users of Windows run classified cryptosystems on their machines or whether it is intended to open up anyone's and everyone's Windows computer to intelligence gathering techniques deployed by NSA's burgeoning corps of "information warriors".

According to Fernandez of Cryptonym, the result of having the secret key inside your Windows operating system "is that it is tremendously easier for the NSA to load unauthorized security services on all copies of Microsoft Windows, and once these security services are loaded, they can effectively compromise your entire operating system". The NSA key is contained inside all versions of Windows from Windows 95 OSR2 onwards.

"For non-American IT managers relying on Windows NT to operate highly secure data centres, this find is worrying", he added. "The US government is currently making it as difficult as possible for "strong" crypto to be used outside of the US. That they have also installed a cryptographic back-door in the world's most abundant operating system should send a strong message to foreign IT managers".

"How is an IT manager to feel when they learn that in every copy of Windows sold, Microsoft has a 'back door' for NSA - making it orders of magnitude easier for the US government to access your computer?" he asked.

Can the loophole be turned round against the snoopers?

Dr van Someren feels that the primary purpose of the NSA key inside Windows may be for legitimate US government use. But he says that there cannot be a legitimate explanation for the third key in Windows 2000 CAPI. "It looks more fishy", he said.

Fernandez believes that NSA's built-in loophole can be turned round against the snoopers. The NSA key inside CAPI can be replaced by your own key, and used to sign cryptographic security modules from overseas or unauthorised third parties, unapproved by Microsoft or the NSA. This is exactly what the US government has been trying to prevent. A demonstration "how to do it" program that replaces the NSA key can be found on Cryptonym's website.

According to one leading US cryptographer, the IT world should be thankful that the subversion of Windows by NSA has come to light before the arrival of CPUs that handles encrypted instruction sets. These would make the type of discoveries made this month impossible. "Had the next-generation CPU's with encrypted instruction sets already been deployed, we would have never found out about NSAKEY."

Viewer Commentary: 86 comments

---

Once again its true. I typed the address for the house I was getting built a few years back (I kept on forgetting it) on a notepad file. Makes it easy to remember stuff. I ended up having to pay an extra couple of weeks rent in the house I was staying because the file with the adress went missing and when it came time to move in, the file was gone. My memory isn't so good these days, and I couldn't remember it, and I was too proud to ask the builder where it was (he might have been in on it) so more rent got paid while I waited for the new phone book to come out, and I finally found my address. Robert Duck. I think my old land-lord might work for microsoft, and he could have deleted my files to make me forget why I was paying rent, but I had a feeling something was up. As martha, denis's wife says "If you truthfully admit to doing something, does that automatically change time to rearrange the events to make it happen, or did it already hapen?" I don't know Martha.

Posted by Robert Duck @ 11/18/2002 02:35 AM EST

---

that's not very nice

Posted by Robert Duck @ 11/18/2002 02:52 AM EST

---

Very dodgy. One must wonder what the purpose of SystemFunction001() - SystemFunction035() is in ADVAPI32.DLL...

Funny....I just don't seem to be able to access Cryptonym's webpage. Anybody knows what going on?

Posted by ideoplastic @ 11/18/2002 05:32 AM EST

---

please can someone explain what all this means in real simple language for people like me who don't understand what is going on behind the scenes in the computer
thanks
:)

Posted by viziondanz @ 11/18/2002 10:36 AM EST

---

please can someone explain what all this means in real simple language for people like me who don't understand what is going on behind the scenes in the computer
thanks
:)

Posted by viziondanz @ 11/18/2002 10:36 AM EST

---

Simple: "NIHIL FIDEI"

Posted by Boris @ 11/18/2002 06:16 PM EST

---

Pleeze, what does NIHIL FIDEI mean?

Posted by Non knower of NIHIL FIDEI @ 11/19/2002 12:26 AM EST

---

it means, roughly, "trust no one"

Posted by ataraxia @ 11/19/2002 09:30 AM EST

---

What about XP?
Couldn't find it under Windows/system directory.
Renamed?

Posted by Bruce @ 11/19/2002 11:16 AM EST

---

If I delete these files ADVAPI32.DLL and/or ADVAPI.DLL from my system will it still function?

Posted by Jim Sexton @ 11/19/2002 02:34 PM EST

---

I'VE READ WHERE THE SHADOW GOV'T HAS ADVANCED VERY HI TECH PROGRAMS THAT ACCESS THE UNCONCIOUS MIND VIA LIGHT PATTERNS AND BLINKING/STROBING RATES THROUGH YOUR COMPUTER SCREEN WHICH IS USED FOR MASS MIND CONTROL AND PROGRAMMING...OF COURSE THEY WOULD NEVER DO THAT RIGHT????!!!

Posted by jACK @ 11/19/2002 07:29 PM EST

---

wow, i wonder what r those Nsa doing ? y r they so curious 2 know everything...what r they up 2... n does linux have the same key.... can they do that to open source system ?

Posted by Nightshades @ 11/19/2002 08:35 PM EST

---

anjjiis, aing teu ngarti !!!

Posted by beruk gembel @ 11/19/2002 08:55 PM EST

---

just delete files ADVAPI32.DLL and/or ADVAPI.DLL from your system

Posted by BABI AER @ 11/19/2002 09:07 PM EST

---

Cryptonym's WEB ADDRESS IS:

<http://www.idg.net/idgns/1999/09/03/UPDATE2NewWindowsCryptoBackdoorSaid.shtml>

Posted by Greg Burton @ 11/19/2002 10:13 PM EST

---

I just saw an agent run past my recycle bin AAAAARRRRRRRGHHHHH

HEEEEEEEELPPPPPPPPPP!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Posted by rebu @ 11/20/2002 05:59 AM EST

---

i found advap132.dll under the ServicePackFile. what is an agent? pls advise. tks.

Posted by cj @ 11/20/2002 10:11 AM EST

---

The Duncan Campbell article is from April 1999, so this backdoor is now 3 and a half years old.

<http://www.heise.de/tp/english/inhalt/te/5263/1.html>

Check out Other Operating System options that are available to you and that are free of backdoors. :)

Posted by Paul S. @ 11/20/2002 01:30 PM EST

---

i run XP and the file is in the system32 folder and named advapi32.dll. after getting rid of the file putting it onto a removable harddrive, removing it, restarting, and checking, a NEW copy of the same file was in the same place. i then went to paste the original back into the directory and got the popup window about the different versions of the same file with both files having different dates. you can't just delete the file, you have to replace it with another file by the same name, preferable with the nsa key removed(if possible).

Posted by xbradx @ 11/20/2002 01:52 PM EST

---

Is this just another way for the American gov to put their sticky fingers where they are not wanted?

Posted by Rob @ 11/21/2002 01:10 AM EST

---

Apparently Cryptonym is no longer in business, their homepage is "intentionally left blank". It looks like you are right, though that this issue is several years old. I found this article from nsclean that explains in a lot more detail:

<http://www.nsclean.com/nsakey.html>

Apparently they think the second key was not for the government, but for international banking and, sadly, just named wrong. According to them if you have IECLEAN and turn off java, activ-x, etc your system cannot be compromised, unless after you are notified, you give approval for it to be. Same with netscape.

I wonder how this affects aol browser.

Posted by D F @ 11/21/2002 07:26 AM EST

---

If you use Internet Explorer, a web page can be coded to display the contents of your hard drive - A website on Angelfire showed how this worked, but the IP took it down.

The solution would be to encrypt drive C, so files can't be opened without a password.

Internet Explorer is simply unsecure, and probably will remain that way indefinitely. The security patches are made long after the defects have been exploited and publicized.

Posted by Little Brother @ 11/21/2002 09:14 AM EST

---

<http://web.archive.org/web/20000815080126/http://www.cryptonym.com/hottopics/msft-nsa/ReplaceNsaKey.zip>

Posted by Here ya go @ 11/21/2002 10:02 AM EST

---

Cpoy and paste the link up above.....

Posted by Here ya go @ 11/21/2002 10:04 AM EST

---

Just use Linux or Mac. There is talk of an alternative Internet, and Steve Jobs is completely opposed to TCPA/Palladium (another sniff-ass scheme by the Gates Crew).

Posted by Time Step @ 11/21/2002 12:24 PM EST

---

Recently, Microsoft announced they will be working with the new Homeland Security Dept. The guy that's heading the dept. for MS is ex-military. He was on cable last week talking about it but was very elusive on answering what MS gets out of it (ie. money). Does anyone think that the current administration let them out of the anti-trust case (which was won by the government) in return for MS building future codes into their software?

Posted by Tom @ 11/21/2002 08:14 PM EST

---

ABSOLUTELY, Tom. Quite obvious in light of recent developments (ie. the subject of this site)

Posted by jode @ 11/21/2002 08:49 PM EST

---

I was sent this by a friend after a discussion on this subject. What do you think?

Comments on the "NSA" key in Microsoft CryptoAPI

-----
Bruce Schneier (bruce@COUNTERPANE.COM)
Fri, 3 Sep 1999 20:49:07 -0500

Messages sorted by: [ date ] [ thread ] [ subject ] [ author ]
Next message: Boren, Rich: "Case ID SSRT0620 - PFCUser account communication"
Previous message: Russ: "Alert: CryptoAPI and _NSAKey issue"
Next in thread: Bruce Schneier: "Re: Comments on the "NSA" key in Microsoft CryptoAPI"
Reply: Bruce Schneier: "Re: Comments on the "NSA" key in Microsoft CryptoAPI"

-----
This is a response to: <http://ntbugtraq.ntadvice.com/default.asp?sid=1&pid=47&aid=52>

A few months ago in my newsletter Crypto-Gram, I talked about Microsoft's system for digitally signing cryptography suits that go into its operating system. The point is that only approved crypto suites can be used, which makes thing like export control easier. Annoying as it is, this is the current marketplace.

Microsoft has two keys, a primary and a spare. The Crypto-Gram article talked about attacks based on the fact that a crypto suite is considered signed if it is signed by EITHER key, and that there is no mechanism for transitioning from the primary key to the backup. It's stupid cryptography, but the sort of thing you'd expect out of Microsoft.

Suddenly there's a flurry of press activity because someone notices that the second key is called "NSAKEY" in the code. Ah ha! The NSA can sign crypto suites. They can use this ability to drop a Trojaned crypto suite into your computers. Or so the conspiracy theory goes.

I don't buy it.

First, if the NSA wanted to compromise Microsoft's Crypto API, it would be much easier to either 1) convince MS to tell them the secret key for MS's signature key, 2) get MS to sign an NSA-compromised module, 3) install a module other than Crypto API to break the encryption (no other modules need signatures). It's always easier to break good encryption.

Second, NSA doesn't need a key to compromise security in Windows. Programs like Back Orifice can do it without any keys. Attacking the Crypto API still requires that the victim run an executable (even a Word macro) on his computer. If you can convince a victim to run an untrusted macro, there are a zillion smarter ways to compromise security.

Third, why in the world would anyone call a secret NSA key "NSAKEY." Lots of people have access to source code within Microsoft; a conspiracy like this would only be known by a few people. Anyone with a debugger could have found this "NSAKEY." If this is a covert mechanism, it's not very covert.

I see two possibilities. One, that the backup key is just as Microsoft says, a backup key. It's called "NSAKEY" for some dumb reason, and that's that.

Two, that it is actually an NSA key. If the NSA is going to use Microsoft products for classified traffic, they're going to install their own cryptography. They're not going to want to show it to anyone, not even Microsoft. They are going to want to sign their own modules. So the backup key could also be an NSA internal key, so that they could install strong cryptography on Microsoft products for their own internal use.

But it's not an NSA key so they can secretly install weak cryptography on the unsuspecting masses. There are just too many smarter things they can do to the unsuspecting masses.

Bruce

-----

The following is from the April Crypto-Gram, at: <http://www.counterpane.com/crypto-gram-9904.html#certificates>

Attacking Certificates with Computer Viruses

How do you know an e-mail is authentic? You verify the digital signature, of course. This means that you verify that the message was correctly signed, using the sender's public key. How do you know that the sender's (call her Alice) public key is valid? You check the signature on *that* public key.

What you're checking is called a certificate. Someone else, call him Bob, signs Alice's public key and confirms that it is valid. So you verify Bob's signature on Alice's certificate, so you can verify Alice's signature on her e-mail.

Okay, how do you know that Bob's signature is valid? Maybe Carol signs her key (creating another certificate). That doesn't actually solve the problem; it just moves it up another layer. Or maybe you signed Bob's key, so you know to trust him. Or maybe someone else whose key you signed has signed Carol's key. In the end, you have to trust someone.

This notion of a certificate chain is one of the biggest problems with public-key cryptography, and one that isn't talked about very much. PGP uses the notion of "trusted introducers"; Bob signs Alice's key because Bob knows Alice and is her friend. You signed Bob's key for the same reason. So when Alice sends you an e-mail you can note that her public key is signed by Bob, and you trust Bob to introduce you to people. (Much like Bob bringing Alice along to your party.)

Other Internet protocols -- S/MIME, SSL, etc. -- take a more hierarchical approach. You probably got your public key signed by a company like Verisign. A Web site's SSL public key might have been signed by Netscape. Microsoft signs public keys used to sign pieces of ActiveX code you might download from the net.

These so-called "root-level certificates" come hard-wired into your browser. So when you try to establish an SSL connection with some Web site, that Web site sends you its public-key certificate. You check to see if that certificate is signed (using the public key in your browser); if it is, you're happy. The you-have-to-trust-someone public keys are the ones that come with your software. You trust them implicitly, with no outside verification.

So if you're a paranoid computer-security professional, the obvious question to ask is: can a rogue piece of software replace the root-level certificates in my browser and trick me into trusting someone? Of course it can.

It's even weirder than that. Researchers Adi Shamir and Nico van Someren looked at writing programs that automatically search for public-key certificates and replace them with phony ones. It turns out that the randomness characteristics of a public key make them stick out like sore thumbs, so they're easy to find.

This attack isn't without problems. If a virus replaces the root Netscape certificate with a phony one, it can trick you into believing a fake certificate is valid. But that replacement certificate can't verify any real certificates, so you'll also believe that every real certificate is invalid. (Hopefully, you'll notice this.) But it works well with Microsoft's Authenticode. Microsoft had the foresight to include two root-level Authenticode certificates, presumably for if one ever gets compromised. But the software is designed to authenticate code if even one checks out. So a virus can replace the Authenticode spare certificate. Now rogue software signed with this rogue certificate verifies as valid, and real software signed by valid Microsoft-approved companies still checks out as valid.

This virus doesn't exist yet, but it could be written.

An okay story on the topic:

<http://www.techweb.com/wire/story/TWB19990315S0001>

The actual research paper:

<http://www.ncipher.com/products/files/papers/anguilla/keyhide2.pdf>

-----
Next message: Boren, Rich: "Case ID SSRT0620 - PFCUser account communication"

Previous message: Russ: "Alert: CryptoAPI and _NSAKey issue"

Next in thread: Bruce Schneier: "Re: Comments on the "NSA" key in Microsoft CryptoAPI"

Reply: Bruce Schneier: "Re: Comments on the "NSA" key in Microsoft CryptoAPI"

-----
This archive was generated by hypermail 2.0b3 on Sun Sep 05 1999 - 09:50:39 CDT

Posted by Tom @ 11/21/2002 10:26 PM EST

---

If you decide to delete ADVAPI32.DLL say goodbye to your computer. Unless you have that file backed up you won't be using your computer again. Don't delete it your computer won't grow a new one.

Posted by Eagleyed @ 11/21/2002 10:34 PM EST

---

I have read in the corporate media that there is at least one or two NSA employees working @ Microsoft. According to this article they are known to Bill Gates. I believe I read this in "Body of Secrets." I may be incorrect but it sounds reasonable. Someone want to check it out?

N.N.

Posted by nerdnick @ 11/22/2002 11:46 AM EST

---

I have read in the corporate media that there is at least one or two NSA employees working @ Microsoft. According to this article they are known to Bill Gates. I believe I read this in "Body of Secrets." I may be incorrect but it sounds reasonable. Someone want to check it out?

N.N.

Posted by nerdnick @ 11/22/2002 11:47 AM EST

---

Fuck you

Posted by Fuck you @ 11/22/2002 07:45 PM EST

---

Fuck you

Posted by Fuck you @ 11/22/2002 07:46 PM EST

---

I connected to cryptonym's website.

That's what I got:

This page was left blank intentionally.

Posted by One @ 11/25/2002 04:15 AM EST

---

I was banned today from all MSNBC chat servers for supposedly violating there conduct codes.

I am unable to access there site, must be blocking the ip I am coming from.

I merely logged on at approximatley 10:00am, under the ever so appropriate name of Prometheus, to the MSNBC chat live with the news, where I was only allowed enough time to get out the following before being completely banned:

(i wrote) "How NSA access was built into Windows"

(this is merely a copy and paste of the article title, sorry vox about just copying)

(i wrote again) "How NSA access was built into Windows"

(I then waited for 30 or so seconds to see if anyone was willing to let me tell them, and noticed the usual Pro-Jewish, anti-Peace, war propaganda, I guess people are more worried about killing then realizing Bill Gates is helping the governemnt keep information on you, everyone should do some research on the "Stazi" and take a long hard look at what our government is doing)

(i wrote) there is a backdoor in your windows program...

And then a little windows erroe message popped up and I was told that: You have been dropped by Mark(?)

I then tried to log back on, because, hey, the 80% of culture that never reach philisophical reason and only do as there told on the jewish-zionist run media tells them, they need help too, and since I made it out of the WASP matrix and brainwashing I figure that I should help those stuck back in the bullshit sexually perverse marketing scheme of television, and I decided to log back on, even just using my name, because I believe in what I preach, and sure enough an error message pops up letting me now that I can try loggin back on in a month or so because I have been banned from all msnbc stuff for violating the code of conduct.

I relize we can all believe this, so I don't have to ask everyone.

I really feel it's time to start putting a stop to all of this constant molesting of good and decent people who have no idea who they are let alone what is going on in the world around them.

Was I the only one who had Sociology class in high school?

Was I the only one who learned about subliminal messages, propaganda, how the history books in the us are bullshit, the definition of what "Ethnocentricity" is and why antropologists stopped taking the dirty savage look on societyis that were not exactly like there, am I the only one who knows that reality is perception and the wolfs have gotten in the gate and are casting illusions on everyone?

Is there anyone else out there who really what to make a pro active differece?

They have also shut off my ability to send email out.

Posted by Andy @ 11/27/2002 07:05 AM EST

---

I just received a form in the mail from the Census Bureau. Aside from it bieng off about 8 years, it asks in DETAIL, all about you ,where you work all the way down to how many toilets you have! Upon checking the census website, I found out that there will be census takers out equipped with GPS and other sophisticated data gathering equipment. Now, I am politically active in that I raise questions about our government's motives, lend my voice to those that oppose a war in Iraq, and give advice judiciously to those that need it, and beleive me, I love my country, but I am not a threat in any remote sense of the word, to my country. Has anyone else heard of this "census", and if so what have you heard? Please use the e-mail address included.

Posted by A Real American @ 11/30/2002 04:34 PM EST

---

The e-mail address to the previous post is opa3612@bellsouth.net. Thanks

Posted by A Real American @ 11/30/2002 04:38 PM EST

---

Cryptome web site, still works:

<http://www.cryptome.org/>

Posted by Q @ 12/05/2002 12:33 AM EST

---

your all idiots

Posted by you idiots @ 12/05/2002 01:51 AM EST

---

How can we be assure that the patch of Cryptome does not add some other stuff of the NSA while advocating to be the salvation ?

People, use two computers. One connected to internet, the other not. It's as simple as that. Forget about patches.

Posted by Aquestioni @ 12/05/2002 02:13 AM EST

---

They come into my house in the middle of the night and re-arrange my furniture exactly the way it was!
I know they were hear because its all how I left it!!! Can you hear the black helicopters, they are coming for you for your fake Britney spears nudes, they will tell your whole school you masturbate and think about same sex relationships. Your all doomed!

Posted by Denomulous @ 12/05/2002 03:43 AM EST

---

PARANOIDS

Posted by intexk @ 12/05/2002 04:22 AM EST

---

The NSA requires that it is provided a key, of course the "NSAKEY" is a key for the NSA.

Posted by Elijah @ 12/05/2002 05:45 AM EST

---

So if NSA has a hand in Microsoft, why is it not surprising that the DoJ was unable to break the company up. Possibly taking away away the governments Big Brother software provider.

Posted by nemo @ 12/05/2002 06:21 AM EST

---

The Matrix is beginning to collapse! Run for your lives!

Posted by KingDing @ 12/05/2002 06:28 AM EST

---

What better way for a government to keep track of people? Get something incorporated into the operating system that runs on about 90% of the computers in the whole freaking world, then "give it away" with the purchase of a new computer. Trust me, just about every American citizen appears on a "list" somewhere. Something you did at some point in your life got the attention of some agency (got arrested, detained at the airport, sent/received mail from a former communist country, have friends who have done any of the above, have relatives in another country, think about it...). Don't sweat it. Unless you continue to show up on their radar, the Dream Police are not going to show up at your door...

Posted by King Ding @ 12/05/2002 06:45 AM EST

---

Hail Eris! All hail Discordia! Fnord!

Posted by Hagbard Celine @ 12/05/2002 06:59 AM EST

---

[quote]I'VE READ WHERE THE SHADOW GOV'T HAS ADVANCED VERY HI TECH PROGRAMS THAT ACCESS THE UNCONCIOUS MIND VIA LIGHT PATTERNS AND BLINKING/STROBING RATES THROUGH YOUR COMPUTER SCREEN WHICH IS USED FOR MASS MIND CONTROL AND PROGRAMMING...OF COURSE THEY WOULD NEVER DO THAT RIGHT????!!![/quote]

i heard about that long time ago, normally our TV goes with 24fps, but there is frame number 25 that we cant really see as an image but brain does take that one

Posted by UnnamedPlayer @ 12/05/2002 07:34 AM EST

---

just because your paranoid, doesn't mean they aren't out to get you!!!
BTW "you idiots" go back to school

Posted by bargansnarf @ 12/05/2002 08:28 AM EST

---

If you people are sceptical about Microsoft, just install Linux. It's as simple as that!!

Hey people, don't get to paranoid!

A merry christmas from Norway! :)

Posted by Rune @ 12/05/2002 08:30 AM EST

---

wow, a lot of you people are pretty stupid/moronic/paranoid.
just change the key with the nsa key changer that was put out..

Posted by people are morons @ 12/05/2002 08:30 AM EST

---

If you people are sceptical about Microsoft, just install Linux. It's as simple as that!!

Hey people, don't get to paranoid!

A merry christmas from Norway! :)

Posted by Rune @ 12/05/2002 08:31 AM EST

---

If you people are sceptical about Microsoft, just install Linux. It's as simple as that!!

Hey people, don't get to paranoid!

A merry christmas from Norway! :)

Posted by Rune @ 12/05/2002 08:32 AM EST

---

i am not surprized of what i see. control freaks are everywhere. specially inside NSA. didn't you wanna know what everyone's doing?

Posted by geezas @ 12/05/2002 08:53 AM EST

---

I don't care as long as they don't delete my porn.

Posted by Bryan @ 12/05/2002 09:09 AM EST

---

Get a mac

Posted by Steve Jobs @ 12/05/2002 09:12 AM EST

---

I agree wth Bryan

Posted by Mark r @ 12/05/2002 09:12 AM EST

---

I agree wth Bryan

Posted by Mark r @ 12/05/2002 09:12 AM EST

---

I agree wth Bryan

Posted by Mark r @ 12/05/2002 09:12 AM EST

---

From below: In It for US

"Your either with US as equals under a rule of law as Universal Justice, or your a mindless slave whore Sacrificing your soul for bush, the anti-Christ, who will as he continues, stealing and murdering from our families without any good reason, or provocations as evil incarnate he is to US all."

(Just another of those Youisms from Johnny, the Lord.)

Then, a little later, some scribbles on the nazi terrorist Jew hater, that super evil mass murdering lifeless lump of waste byproduct, the leach whom we all know so well truly as a parasite of life's will to steal ourselves from God as plundered, the stenching, blood soaked monster, henry kissing.. er.. ariel sharon:

"How can killing, torturing, and [then] destroying the homes of [US] innocent civilians be considered anything but, terrorism?" Hey, what do you say in stopping them hurting US, by destroying them both American Patriot?, as we now let ourselves sort it out in the here after? Eh? Wake up friend...

Then even further, don't miss, the highly anticipated, "Corporate Street Gangs - Monsanto" that lists the ACTUAL individual people never mentioned by CNN, who perpetrate those heinous crimes against the American Public, and who have so far, escaped incarceration as multi-millionaire corporate successes.

Again, none of any words world wide bare contention against the facts we've brought to our attention. The traitors to America, Our Mr. bush Jr. and rotten rumsfeld don't mention the willingness of American Soldiers to apprehend general Ahmad as the principle terrorist funder of Atta, because this general is also responsible for developing the bushmob strategy of killing Americans in New York City from Washington. A strategy of blaming bin Laden without any evidence to bomb Afghanistan for Enron. (The Dahbol Working Group.) Then closing criminal investigations, as it's not important to know who personally was responsible for the insider trades, or the contacting of only Odigo. Never mentioned by CNN as top priority to American soldier concerns, who are expected by Blitzer and Hemmer to throw away their lives in sacrifice unthinking to bush, america's false deity, super evil anti-Christ. While bush and cheney threaten to murder more dumb Americans who would dare to articulate the demand for Justice as our own, like Laden has, while demanding American Patriots cower in fear of the sadistic savage mass murdering death squad leader, tommy franks, or the anti-Christ going out to kill their family too as not represented by corporate policy, while American soldier families are continually disrespected as unworthy. (Generally, they are pretty damn stoopid, but certainly, if they're not knowingly committing first degree murders for the anti-Christ as pure nazi filth, they should be allowed to learn, instead of having their own undefended families robbed then slaughtered for American traitor, nazi puke terrorist, tommy franks, or for Monsanto's rotten rumsfeld. Do you notice corporate America continues to show outdated footage of those two demons standing near smiling armed American soldiers, who as a mass of dumfuks, aren't intelligent enough to destroy them instantly as established enemies of America as terrorists? Well, that is going to change. I have yet to find ANY American Soldier who is literate, who disagrees WE have some very important questions that need immediate answers before the bushmob murders more Americans in Our name. See for yourself through Google if you don't believe in Christ as the Redeemer.

As for the doubting American Soldier, LOOK, CNN will continue as cult members in their dying madness of just even lamer excuses, to convince US, we are alone in our concerns for Freedom as Justice instills for US all. This moment of History requires you to stand strong for only yourself to be represented truly among the stars. Evil stupid people can't make heads or tails of this, but, as evil bush does truly from his dark shallow existence, will continue by open piracy, to publicly advocate in Our names the further robbing and murder of your own family American Patriot, so too, will more american nazi dumfuks die to the tune of their own cowardice to protect themselves as garnered fairly. This is why rotten rumsfeld forbids the death tally of American soldiers to be made public to the ready for enlistment as the too dumb to know better. Life is life, and sorry to say american dumfuks, Christ on the cross is you too as a true dying American Patriot, and your already politically sitting in the bush slave whore position of hatred and injustice against Humanity and myself honestly as.. THE SON OF MAN! (The for real, no illusion, god of God's life/death trade barter, with a score to settle on behalf of the infinite Universe and True brave Soldiers everywhere. KILL AMERICAN COP KILLER BUSH NOW BEFORE HE MURDERS MORE LIKE OURSELVES IN OUR NAME AS THE INNOCENT COWARDS!) THINK, if I fly down there to Washington as a simple man, and destroy the cop killing demon monsters bush, rumsfeld, cheney, and franks with my bare hands in love as the timid Jesus of folklore, while salivating, how is that going to look to the perishoners, who, God love'em, just wouldn't understand the finer art of akeido, huh?

CNN is not interested in working for American interests by asking why, as there is little of any money in just doing good for your neighbor, like saving a living, as we would wish to be helped for ourselves, if we were bound just the same to be equals at being. Mr. Blitzer and Bill Hemmer, as americans, wouldn't give a dollar of your time, to speak on human rights to be of their own concern, (they're already rich by theft without talent as dying our death by murder as not spoken for really. Just like how they refuse to report on the blatant criminal lottery operations that steal from EVERYONE.) or to save the life of an innocent poor victim, if it meant they would therefor, be compelled to honestly report on their false deity bush, corporate america's super evil criminal to ourselves as Humanity, the unelected dictator, American cop killing anti-Christ in person!, that they so leave to see Americans sacrificed as ignored to be robbed from, as their profit margin increases, from their, holyier than thou pulpits, leaving You all to get robbed and murdered by dumb nazi scum like reject tommy franks, the terrorizing death squad leader, woman and child killer. We're sure CNN, as others would say, as they do regarding sharon's murder rampages against the innocent as God, nothing. Do less for America, The dying from stupidity People, and get payed more in collateral damages paid for by doubting Patriots, now mostly too slow to stand for the American flag in protection for their own living as lost to the wind without freedom to guide their own convictions. Mr. bush, tommy, rumsfeld, cheney and blair give no evidence to back an american soldier's reason, but for to show themselves as the criminals who openly harbor terrorist activity against our communities, and WE, as Humanity, according to CNN, are expected to go out and kill our family and friends in cowardice, instead of standing up to destroy the evil demon bush instead, to save our own selves as worth consideration.

God, or no God, I hate that murderer bush as much as any real man would to care for his own life as family.

Johnny Wizard

--

HTTX 2.0b

Title: Material Breach: US Crimes in Iraq

Published on Saturday, November 30, 2002 by CommonDreams.org
Material Breach: US Crimes in Iraq
by Heather Wokusch

D-Day of December 8th quietly approaches - the day Iraq must provide the UN Security Council with a complete accounting of its weapons programs, plus its civilian chemical/biological/nuclear production and research activities. Even though UN weapons inspectors have criticized the December 8th deadline as unrealizable, the consequences for missing it will be catastrophic: Iraq will be in "material breach" of UN resolution 1441, and therefore subject to swift and decisive military action.

But at this point, UN 1441 seems little more than a whitewash pretext for a US-led attack on Iraq. With US warplanes patrolling Iraq's no-fly zone, bombing raids against Iraq ongoing, multiple aircraft carriers on alert and 60,000 US troops currently in or around the Persian Gulf, it's clear the war has already begun, "material breach" or not. When it's convenient for the Bush administration, Iraq will be found to have violated some aspect of the UN resolution, and the current buildup and covert military activity will explode into an all-out attack.

The justification (that Iraq's Hussein violates international law with his weapons of mass destruction and is thus a menace to world peace) seems a bit ironic in light of US actions in Iraq these past eleven years.

Case in point. Article 54 of the Geneva Conventions clearly states that destroying or rendering useless items essential to the survival of civilian populations is illegal under international law and a war crime. Hard then to explain the 1991 US bombing of electrical grids that powered 1,410 water-treatment plants for Iraq's 22 million people. An excerpt from a 1998 US Air Force document, entitled "Strategic Attack," chillingly explains: "The electrical attacks proved extremely effective ... The loss of electricity shut down the capital's water treatment plants and led to a public health crisis from raw sewage dumped in the Tigris River." A second US Defense Intelligence Agency document, 1991's "Iraq Water Treatment Vulnerabilities," predicted how sanctions would then be used to prevent Iraq from getting the equipment and chemicals necessary for water purification, which would result in "a shortage of pure drinking water for much of the population" leading to "increased incidences, if not epidemics, of disease."

So basically, in defiance of international law, the United States knowingly destroyed Iraq's water supply, then for the past eleven years has prevented the contaminated drinking water from being treated, even though it was obvious those most affected would be millions of citizens doomed to preventable disease and death. If that's not a material breach, what is?

Then there's the depleted uranium (DU) weaponry the United States and its allies used on Iraq during the Gulf War, despite foreknowledge its radioactivity would make food and water in the bombed regions unsafe for consumption on an indefinite basis (DU remains radioactive for 4.5 billion years). Add in the fact that trails of carcinogenic dust left in a DU bomb's wake spread in the wind to be absorbed by plants and animals, thereby devastating a region's food chain. Of course, humans inhale and absorb DU dust as well, which has most likely led not only to dramatically elevated levels of birth defects and cancer cases among Iraqi civilians, but also to a wide litany of suffering among Gulf War vets; a recent study, for example, found that even nine years after the war, veterans afflicted with Gulf War Syndrome ailments still had DU traces in their urine. This while there has yet to be any US governmental study on the effects of DU inhalation...

We can expect DU to be used in the next attack on Iraq too, in spite of the inhumane risks to civilians and military personnel alike. According to a Defense Department report, "the US Military Services use DU munitions because of DU's superior lethality" adding, "Gulf War exposures to depleted uranium (DU) have not to date produced any observable adverse health effects attributable to DU's chemical toxicity or low-level radiation." With more than one out of six American Gulf War vets having reported health problems since their service, and over 9,000 having died since the war ended, not to mention the marked increase in Iraqi birth defects and cancer cases in DU-bombed regions, denial like that is nothing short of material breach, an affront to both human rights and common sense.

And what if the December 8th deadline is met, and no weapons of mass destruction are found by U.N. weapons inspectors inside Iraq? Says US Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld: "What it would prove would be that the inspection process had been successfully defeated by the Iraqis. There's no question but that the Iraqi regime is clever, they've spent a lot of time hiding things, dispersing things, tunneling underground." So it would appear regardless of how the inspections turn out, the Iraqis will be attacked anyway.

In facing a no-win situation, Hussein could seem like a martyr to others in the region; he could also see little option but to unleash whatever destructive powers he has left. Backing someone like him into a corner is foreign policy at its most disastrous, a dangerous development for the entire region and very bad news for the unfortunate service men and women thrown into that quagmire.

It's clear that Saddam Hussein is a loathsome ogre who has shown criminal disregard for his population. What's also clear though is that the US record in the region is disgraceful if not downright criminal. Consider that for the two years following Hussein's infamous 1988 gas attack on the Kurds at Halabja (an attack in which US-built helicopters were apparently among those dropping the bombs) the US government seemed quite uninterested in his possession of chemical weapons, or any other weapons for that matter. Remember too, that a 1992 Senate committee report entitled "US Chemical and Biological Warfare-Related Dual-Use Exports to Iraq," demonstrated that Hussein bought technology and materials necessary to create nuclear, biological and chemical weapons from none other than the States and Britain - and continued to make purchases even after the attack at Halabja. Factor in the water supply degradation, DU toxicity and debilitating sanctions and it's hard to imagine the average Iraqi embracing American forces as welcome liberators.

The bottom line is that the US has some questions to answer about its past conduct in Iraq, questions that can't be answered by another full-scale war.

Heather Wokusch is a free-lance writer. She can be contacted via her web site at www.heatherwokusch.com ###

© Copyrighted 1997-2002 www.commondreams.org

--

HTTX 2.0b

Title: The journalism and films of John Pilger

For 40 years, Australian governments have colluded with state terrorism in Indonesia. Now, the Bali outrage allows John Howard to distract attention from his hypocrisy : John Pilger :17 Oct 2002

The Australian prime minister, John Howard, says the atrocity on the island of Bali is "proof" that "the war against terrorism must go on with unrelenting vigour and with an unconditional commitment". What he means is that he will continue to perform his holier-than-Blair role as George W Bush's most devoted, if not universally recognised, foreign gang member.

The Australian military is, in effect, an extension of the Pentagon. Australian ships operate with the American fleet in the Gulf, enforcing an embargo against Iraq which, according to the United Nations Children's Fund, has led to the unnecessary deaths of more than 600,000 Iraqi children. In Indonesia, Australians, together with their American counterparts, have secretly resumed training the Indonesian military, which, in the world cup of terrorism, is the undisputed champion.

Al-Qaeda has been fingered in Washington for the Bali outrage. The script is unchanged. To Bush, Blair and Howard, the Bali bombing will be simply further justification for attacking Iraq.

How truly bizarre the American enterprise of world conquest has become. First, there was the bombing of Afghanistan, the equivalent of bombing Sicily in order to eradicate the Mafia. "Terrorism" is the enemy; or as Python's Terry Jones remarked, "They're bombing an abstract noun!" What is clear is that the more bellicose Bush and Blair and Howard become, the more they place the citizens of their own countries at risk.

Like a mouse perpetually roaring, Howard's warmongering has endangered every young Australian backpacking in those countries where his and Bush's provocations are welcomed by extreme groups. Since he became prime minister in 1996, Howard has renewed Australia's reputation in Asia for European exclusivity.

This is tragic, for it is not long since Australia emerged from the cultural isolation of its notorious "white Australia policy" and appeared to express the confidence of the ethnically diverse society it had become. Embracing Asia became politically fashionable, and the old colonial fear of the Asian hordes falling down on Australia, as by the force of gravity, was rejected by many Australians, especially the young.

Howard's openly racist policies have again begun to isolate Australia. He has deployed Australian troops against helpless, mostly Muslim, asylum-seekers on the high seas - more than 350 people went to their deaths in a leaking boat last year even though, as it has now been revealed, Australian military intelligence knew they were in great peril. He has imprisoned many of those who have reached Australia (mostly from Iraq and Afghanistan, the countries he claims to be "liberating") in desert concentration camps in conditions which, reported a United Nations inspector, were among the worst he had seen in more than 40 inspections around the world.

Seldom a day passes when Howard and his inept foreign minister, Alexander Downer, do not utter vacuities about "the war on terror". The truth is that, for almost 40 years, Australian governments have played a significant role in colluding with state terrorism in neighbouring Indonesia. In 1965, the then prime minister Harold Holt joked about the mass murder that accompanied the seizure of power by General Suharto, the west's man. "With 500,000 to a million communist sympathisers knocked off," he said, "I think it's safe to assume a reorientation has taken place."

During the long years of Suharto's dictatorship, which was shored up by western capital, governments and the World Bank, state terrorism on a breathtaking scale was ignored. Australian prime ministers were far too busy lauding the "investment partnership" in resource-rich Indonesia. Suharto's annexation of East Timor, which cost the lives of a third of the population, was described by the foreign minister Gareth Evans as "irreversible". As Evans succinctly put it, there were "zillions" of dollars to be made from the oil and gas reserves in the Timor Sea.

Such lethal hypocrisy was acknowledged by Australia's political and media elite only in the final spasms of the Suharto dictatorship. In 1998, the World Bank's "model pupil" finally collapsed beneath the weight of its corruption after short-term capital fled Indonesia, leaving 70 million people in abject poverty. Given the pressures on this sprawling, ethnically complex country, it is hardly surprising that extreme groups have found fertile ground, whatever their aims. To lump them in with the "global terror" of al-Qaeda serves to suppress, once again, the part that rapacious western interests have played.

Today, largely unreported, the Indonesian military, with the tacit approval of the United States, Britain and Australia, is terrorising the populations of Aceh and West Papua. Most of the "human rights violations" in these provinces - the euphemism for state terrorism - have been part and parcel of "protecting" the American Exxon oil holdings in Aceh as well as the vast Freeport copper and gold mines and BP holdings in West Papua. Those who need a link between the march of multinational capital and state terrorism need look no further.

One of the sacred taboos for western journalists and broadcasters is the terrorism of their own governments. Only when they recognise this and its pivotal role in the fate of much of humanity will they be able to report honestly the lesser terrorism of non-state groups.

Research by Edward Herman and Gerry O'Sullivan covering the period since 1965 points to the killing of several thousand people by non-state terrorists, such as al-Qaeda, compared with 2.5 million civilians killed by state-sponsored terrorism. These include the violence of the South African apartheid regime, the Suharto regime in Indonesia, the "Contras" in Nicaragua and other American-backed terrorist states. This is a conservative figure, for it predates the deaths caused by the Anglo-American-driven sanctions against civilians in Iraq. As Neil Sammonds has pointed out: "When US Secretary of State Madeleine Albright said in May 1996 that the killing of half a million Iraqi children was 'a price worth paying' to keep pressure on Baghdad, she was acting well within any reasonable definition of terrorism."

Those who committed the disgusting mass murder in Bali need to be caught and their organisation broken. But this is unlikely to happen while state terrorism is in the ascendancy, and goes unacknowledged as the most virulent menace of all - and as, in many cases, the root of non-state atrocities. A piratical assault on Iraq will be an act of terrorism by state extremists in Washington. It will also be the catalyst for years of recruitment of those willing to murder westerners in skyscrapers and nightclubs.

St Augustine tells the story of a conversation between Alexander the Great and a pirate he captured. "How dare you molest the seas?" asks Alexander. "How dare you molest the whole world?" the pirate replies. "Because I do it with a little ship only, I am called a thief. You, doing it with a great navy, are called an emperor."

--

HTTX 2.0b

Title: t r u t h o u t - Kissinger in His Own Chilling Words

(*Editors Note The selection of Henry Kissinger by the Bush Administration to oversee the investigation of the events leading up to the September 11th. attacks has done little to allay concerns about what the Administration knew prior to the attacks. To the contrary Kissinger with all his baggage appears to represent an almost desperate desire on the part of the Bush Administration to keep the events leading up to the attacks hidden from public view. Remember as you do the math; this a man who cannot travel freely in Europe and many other parts of the world for fear of being detained by local authorities. Kissinger is a very risky appointment. One cannot help but wonder what would prompt the Bush Administration to take so great a risk. -- ma)

t r u t h o u t Quotation Compilation Quotes from Former US Secretary of State Henry Kissinger

Sunday, 1 December, 2002

Famous Quotes by Henry Kissinger

"The US must carry out some act somewhere in the world which shows its determination to continue to be a world power." -- Henry Kissinger, post-Vietnam blues, as quoted in The Washington Post, April 1975

"Today Americans would be outraged if U.N. troops entered Los Angeles to restore order; tomorrow they will be grateful. This is especially true if they were told there was an outside threat from beyond, whether real or promulgated, that threatened our very existence. It is then that all peoples of the world will plead with world leaders to deliver them from this evil. The one thing every man fears is the unknown. When presented with this scenario, individual rights will be willingly relinquished for the guarantee of their well being granted to them by their world government." -- Henry Kissinger speaking at Evian, France, May 21, 1992 Bilderburgers meeting. Unbeknownst to Kissinger, his speech was taped by a Swiss delegate to the meeting.

"I don't see why we need to stand by and watch a country go communist due to the irresponsibility of its people. The issues are much too important for the Chilean voters to be left to decide for themselves." -- Henry Kissinger, Secretary of State under Richard Nixon, about Chile prior to the CIA overthrow of the democratically elected government of socialist President Salvadore Allende in 1973

"Why should we flagellate ourselves for what the Cambodians did to each other?" -- Henry Kissinger - who (with Richard Nixon) was responsible for the massive bombing of Cambodia in 1973, which killed three-quarters of a million peasants and disrupted Cambodian society, setting the stage for Pol Pot to come to power and ultimately kill another one-and-a-half million people

"Covert action should not be confused with missionary work." -- Henry Kissinger, commenting on the US sellout of the Kurds in Iraq in 1975

"The illegal we do immediately. The unconstitutional takes a little longer." --Henry Kissinger

© : t r u t h o u t 2002

--

Henry Kissinger - Bloody
Hands Full of Gold
By Cheryl Seal

c. 2002 The News Insider & Cheryl Seal

It has become the joke of the day that the Bush Administration is stuffed full of "political dinosaurs" from the Cold War era who want to rattle their sabers and make one last stand like geriatric John Waynes.

They are everywhere, both in front of the curtain -Cheney, Rumsfeld, Powell, et al.- and behind it -Bush, Sr., James Baker, Henry Kissinger, and God only knows who else. However, what these men truly represent is no joke at all.

Behind the smokescreen of patriotism, national security and ideology, they are driven by just one motive: greed. Every single one of these players is a politician for reasons of expediency (power can buy more power). First and foremost, they are corporate tycoons whose primary goal is to advance the cause of corporations. Each one is worth millions and each one is now in a position to engineer policies that will insure they will ultimately be worth millions more.

These policies are now in the process of being pushed forward, and have so far being met with an astonishing lack of resistance. This may be because many Americans, including some Congress members, are too young to recall the true nature of the Cold War era. It may also be that some have simply failed to make themselves sufficiently informed on the nation's political history. It is impossible to believe that anyone armed with the facts would fail to see the ugly template that is now being forced down over the face of the nation.

This article presents a chunk of political history that we hope will serve as a cautionary tale. It clearly exemplifies what the "political dinosaurs" now in charge of our nation are all about, how they operated in the past, and how they still hope to operate. The main figure, Henry Kissinger, personifies to a T the snake-like combination of unscrupulousness and superficial charm that characterizes all of these players, from Bush, Sr. to G.W. The setting, Indonesia, personifies all areas of Earth where any natural resources may be left for a greedy few to exploit in the name of "patriotism" and "national security," be it Africa, the Amazon, Ukraine, or northern Alaska.

An Opportunist's Dream Come True

Indonesia has long been a dream come true for opportunists (until this century they were called "explorers"). With its 17,000 islands sprinkled across the equator in the South Pacific atop a zone of tectonic upheaval, it is a land of incredible biodiversity and dramatic landscapes. Among its main islands are Sumatra, Borneo, Java, Timor (East and West), and Bali (of "South Pacific" fame). Its forests and mountains are treasure chests of exotic plants and animals, while its human population is just as diverse -as recently as the 1980s, an estimated 250 different languages were spoken there.

The first westerners to exploit the region were the Portuguese (although the Dutch had a smaller settlement earlier). In the 17th century, the Portuguese began to "mine" the forests for spices while dominating the natives with a heavy hand. These fragrant exports earned the region the name of "the Spice Islands." Since then, this land, whose native inhabitants in some regions have lineages extending back as much as one million years, has been the focus of a greedy tug-of-war between different foreign powers and between these powers and the Indonesian native peoples. Gold aside, no Indonesian resources have been at the center of more collective strife, bloodshed, and environmental damage than oil and natural gas.

After World War II, Indonesia made a determined stand for its autonomy. By 1950, they had thrown off domination by the Japanese (who had commandeered the oil and liquid natural gas supplies during the war), then pushed away the control of the British and Indian armies, and, finally, the Dutch. The new Indonesian leader Sukarno (not to be confused with the later brutal dictator Suharto) eventually became the country's first president. Sukarno was a visionary who pursued an ideal he called "Pancasila," a state of Indonesian unity in which ethnic and religious tolerance would prevail. It was a dream that was doomed to failure; halfway round the globe, forces were massing that would ultimately topple Sukarno and his government.

In the United States, after World War II, the age of the automobile had dawned. Americans in geometrically growing numbers were heading off to "See the USA in their [great big gas-guzzling] Chevrolets". They came home from their cruises to modern oil-heated homes in proliferating suburbs. Existing US sources, already heavily exploited, soon could not match the demand for abundant, cheap fuel and so the oil companies looked elsewhere, to places such as Indonesia. At the same time, oil-rich Southeast Asia was struggling for autonomy, urged on by the growing Asian communist party, which wanted to distribute Asian wealth more evenly and shake off western control. For western oil and mineral companies, an independent Asia was a major impediment to the exploitation of Indonesia's resources. To address this "impediment," as early as 1953, the US National Security Council had adopted a policy of "appropriate action in collaboration with friendly countries to prevent permanent communist control of Indonesia." However, the only real threat to the US that communism in Southeast Asia posed at that time was as a hindrance to corporations hoping to tap into cheap labor, land, and natural resources.

The history of Indonesia from 1957 on is the history of the struggle of corporations, aided and abetted by the CIA and the corrupt puppet governments they helped to set up, to maintain control over Indonesia's resources. In 1957, the Indonesian state company Pertamina was created under Sukarno for the purpose of developing and controlling oil and natural gas for the advancement of Indonesia. This development was viewed with alarm by US petroleum companies, who themselves wanted control over the country's oil and gas resources. Until the mid-1960s, most of Pertamina's business partners were Chinese, not American.

In 1958, the CIA began to secretly finance, as well as create, political factions aligned against Sukarno. The agency also funneled money to a handful of corrupt, ambitious generals. Thus "fed," these generals quickly began to grow in power and influence, both in the government and in business wheeling and dealing. Meanwhile, Sukarno was in the midst of his "Guided Democracy Movement." Although he himself identified most closely with the communist group called the PKI, there were at that time three important political parties in Indonesia -the PKI, the nationalistic PNI and the conservative Muslims. This represented a greater democratic diversity than could be found in America at that time.

By 1964, Sukarno had grown completely disgusted by American efforts to buy influence in Indonesia and announced that he would no longer accept any aid from the US. That was when the CIA, now operating chiefly through the ambitious, greedy general Suharto, began to push forward with a relentless, carefully orchestrated plan to topple Sukarno.

The Corporate Takeover of Indonesia

In the US a Harvard professor named Henry Kissinger was steadily scooping up experience in international affairs and high-level corporate wheeling and dealing - a combination that was to later prove deadly for the people of Indonesia. From 1954 to 1969, Kissinger had his fingers in a number of juicy pies. From 1954 until 1971 he was a professor at Harvard University - though it is hard to see how he found time to teach - and was in the college's Department of Government and its Center for International Affairs. From 1955-56, he served as Study Director of Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy for the Council of Foreign Relations. From 1956-58 he was Director of the Special Studies Project for the Rockefeller Brothers and was also Director of the Harvard Defense Studies Program from 1958 to 1971.

By the time Kissinger embarked on his career as a master "diplomat" (i.e. corporate intriguer), he was extremely well versed in espionage tactics. From 1943 (the year he came to the US from Nazi Germany) to 1946, he served in the US Army Counter-Intelligence Corps and from 1946 to 1949 was a Captain in the Military Intelligence Reserve. After the war he was Director of the Psychological Strategy Board and of the Operations Research Office. In the late 1950s, his influence in Washington really began to send out tentacles. . Between 1959-68, Kissinger was, at different or overlapping times, a consultant to: the US Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, the Department of State, the Rand Corporation, the National Security Council, and the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Through this spider's web of connections, Kissinger was privy to a bonanza of inside international information, both political and corporate and was fast becoming especially well groomed in those pertaining to Southeast Asia. By 1965, it is obvious Kissinger was using this information to speculate for personal gain in Indonesia. It is also obvious that by 1965 many top corporate execs in the US mining, logging, oil, and gas industries who had staked out potential claims in Indonesia, somehow knew that Sukarno was going to be muscled out and were circling like sharks.

In 1965, Freeport Sulfur, a company based in New Orleans, cut a private deal with the Indonesian government, through Suharto (who by now had immense power in the government) to create a copper-gold mine in West Papua. Who was the deal broker, making sure Freeport got in on the "ground floor"? There is little doubt this middle man was Henry Kissinger. At the same time, Mobile Oil Indonesia was also entering into contracts with Pertamina. It has been alleged that Kissinger also served as a deal broker in this alliance. Over a dozen other oil companies were waiting for their chance to pounce.

All that was needed to complete the scheme was to get rid of Sukarno. To engineer a coup, the CIA took a page from Hitler and the 1950s GOP and turned the PKI into the "monster under the bed." The agency composed and printed lurid, and largely false propaganda about the communist "menace" and disseminated it throughout Indonesia. Some of the literature called for all Muslims to declare a religious Jihad against the PKI - even asserting that it was "God's will" that all communists be killed. The coup engineers targeted young Muslim men 19-20 years of age, whom they whipped into a fear-filled, religious frenzy, then armed with weapons supplied by the US.

What was most despicable about this plot was that until the party began to be persecuted in 1965, the PKI had maintained a strict policy of remaining within the law, conducting only legal protests and remaining unarmed, so as not to provoke the Indonesian military. The "crime" the PKI had committed in the eyes of corrupt generals and their western landowning allies was to urge poor peasants to demand more rights and just compensation from wealthy landowners. The PKI also demanded that the big landowners cease violating the ancient Indonesian rules of crop sharing. The peasants' land was being used to grow sugar and rubber - not the rice that was vital to the survival of the poor. In some areas, the PKI created "armies" of farmers, who took over tracts of land and planted rice. Many of these farmers had been left without any access to land at all due to the eruption of the Ganungagung volcano.

In 1966, having set the stage by spreading suspicion, anger and fear against the communists, the CIA and Suharto went into the next act of what was to become known as the Untung Coup. Six generals still considered loyal to Sukarno were brutally murdered by Suharto and his cohorts. The communists were then framed for the crime, thereby providing Suharto with the excuse he needed to unleash a wholesale "purge" of the PKI. Hitler did much the same thing in Germany in the 1930s -he framed a young Dutch man who belonged to the communist party for blowing up the Reichstag, and thus was able to declare outright war on all communists, which constituted the only faction in Germany that had posed a serious roadblock to his complete domination.

The largely unarmed PKI members were hunted down and slaughtered in one of the most appalling bloodbaths of the 20th century. The poor farmers who had taken a few acres of land were shot down by landowners like turkeys in a shoot. Entire families in which a single member was suspected of being a communist were murdered, including children, some while they slept. Between 1965-1966 an estimated 500,000 to one million men, women, and children were massacred -most with weapons supplied by the US. "Time" magazine reported during this period that "travelers from [some] areas tell of small rivers and streams that have been literally clogged with bodies." However, "Time," like all media in the US in that pre-Vietnam War era (the US presence in Vietnam was still a "police action" then) was still well-indoctrinated by the anti-communist, pro-corporate dogma created by the GOP in the 1950s and sustained by the CIA and a cluster of powerful insiders through the decades ever since. In the July 15, 1966 issue of "Time," the bloody Untung Coup was hailed as "the West's best news in years."

In the final step of the coup, Suharto deposed Sukarno. What followed was a feeding frenzy by Suharto, his henchmen and US corporations. Like a warlord, Suharto appropriated the best of everything he could for himself and his family -oil wells, timberlands, and sugar plantations. Thousands of acres of land were seized by companies with the blessings of Suharto. Tens of thousands of native people were killed, displaced, or "disappeared" to make way for mining, logging, and drilling operations. Suharto and the other corrupt officers of the Indonesian military were involved in every imaginable money-generating scheme, including smuggling -"a range of activities limited only by the imaginations of the military commanders." In 1966, Suharto declared himself committed to aiding the West in its exploitation of Indonesia. In 1967, the "Foreign Investment Law" was passed, which officially threw Indonesia's doors wide open to foreign exploitation. In 1967, guess what western company was the first to be licensed under this new, corrupt and bloodstained regime: The Freeport gold operation.

A Feudal Regime Where Enough is Never Enough

While the US companies ripped billions of dollars out of the Indonesian landscape, over 60% of the nation lived below the poverty line, many at the point of starvation. Yet, the Suharto government would always point to a handful of new schools as proof of his compassion for his country. Even in 2001, Freeport-McMoRan offers a slick propaganda brochure that shows scrubbed natives in front of a single school, and describes a smorgasbord of corporate largesse, which doesn't really exist. The few crusts thrown to the Indonesian natives by Freeport have been in spite of the company; most real advances in the treatment of natives has occurred between 1999-2001 and then only because of the growing public outcry.

As always, when it comes to corporate greed, enough is never enough. By 1974, the US had lost Vietnam and, under Suharto's rule, there were constant outbreaks of rebellion in Indonesia. Nowhere was the push for independence more well-organized and persistent than in East Timor. The progressive governor there decided to allow the formation of multiple political parties, which in turn lead to an intensified push for independence from the oppression of Suharto and from foreign interests. The prospect of East Timorese autonomy dismayed Suharto because he and his friends had very valuable holdings in the region, including three oil wells. If the push for independence succeeded, he might lose his "investments". Worse yet, the push for independence could easily spread into nearby West Papua, threatening Suharto's other interests and Kissinger's gold mine (in which Suharto had a hefty share).

Evidence examined recently by researchers, including investigative reporter Christopher Hitchens strongly indicates that in 1975, Kissinger helped orchestrate a surprise invasion of East Timor by the Indonesian military. . Beyond any likely coincidence, Kissinger and Gerald Ford were visiting Suharto on December 6, 1975, the night before the invasion (although Ford may have been Kissinger's dupe, used as a legitimizing "front" -or even fall guy). The next day, just an hour or so after Air Force One had cleared Indonesian air space, carrying Kissinger and Ford back to the US, the attack on East Timor was launched and the region was soon declared Indonesia's 27th province. In the process, over 200,000 East Timorese people were slaughtered outright; tens of thousands more died of starvation and disease later.

For the next two decades, for the oil and mining industries in Indonesia, and for Henry Kissinger, it was to be business as usual.

The Rape and Murder of Irian Jaya

Henry Kissinger has one sweet deal in the Freeport-McMoran Copper and Gold Co (FCX on the NYSE). Not only does he make well over $500,000 a year just for sitting on the board of directors, his "consulting" firm, Kissinger & Associates (Now Mclarty & Kissinger) rakes in $300,000-500,000 per year as the company advisors, making sure no pesky environmental regulations can ever be enforced and no poor native group can ever win a settlement for having their land poisoned. But best of all for him, he is also the majority stockholder in a company with reserves estimated at $60 billion, making it the single largest gold deposit in the world and third largest open-pit copper mine. That is, he was the majority stockholder as of a few months ago -he may now be unloading certain damning assets as fast as he can dump them in the face of the growing international scrutiny by a list of countries he has harmed in the past 40 years. To also throw the public off the scent, in January 2001, he named Roy J. Stapleton, a former US ambassador to Singapore as "managing director" (i.e. head lobbyist) of Kissinger & Associates. This accomplished two strategic things for Kissinger: it got his name off the "masthead" as legal rep. for FCX, and it will help carry on his own tradition of using inside government information to insure he gains an unfair advantage as a lobbyist

Yep, Kissinger's got a pretty good deal all right. Especially when you consider that FCX has never had to pay much of anything to anybody but a handful of stakeholders, which includes Kissinger, good ole boy Jim-Bob Moffett (who came on board as CEO in 1981) and their golf-playing pal Suharto (although I imagine his grip on the club might be a bit slippery, what with all that blood on them from the over one million men, women and children he has been responsible for slaughtering. If you want to get a feeling for just what sort of person "Jim-Bob" is, check out this link.

-but take your airbag along. Under Suharto's odious Contract of Work, slapped together in 1967, Suharto handed 100,000 hectares of land in the southern area of West Papua, also called Irian Jaya, to FCX for its gold mine. Neither FCX nor Suharto cared that this was not their land to carve up, but belonged to the Amaungme and Komoro people, whose lineages go back as much as one million years, according to some anthropologists. The corporation simply seized the land and booted off the natives. An estimated 2,000 people were shoved into concentration camp-like "settlements" over the next few years so their land could be turned into a giant gold mine, waste pits, processing buildings, airfields, roads, etc. (In FCX's website, they claim no more than 1,000 people lived in the mine region at the start, but the statistics indicate this is a minimizing lie).

As the years went by, FCX gobbled up more and more forestland. Today, the operation consumes a monstrous 5.75 million acres. Instead of a few thousand natives scattered throughout the forest, able to sustain themselves off their land, FCX actually boasts in its website that Irian Jaya is now "home" to 100,000 people from all over the Indonesian region. It doesn't add that most of them were displaced by other corporate or military operations or that they now live in congested, filthy shantytowns on the edge of the mining operation. The website says these people were drawn by the economic opportunity offered by the mine. What economic opportunity? There are only 7,000 or so jobs associated with the mining operation; most of which are filled by imported workers. The few jobs held by natives are unskilled.

But any protests by native peoples against the FCX "improvements" to Irian Jaya have been handled brutally. Thanks to Suharto and the steady supply of US weapons, FCX has been well-protected from uprisings. In fact, Irian Jaya is the most militarized zone in all of Indonesia, with a greater, more heavily armed military presence than even East Timor. There have been numerous human rights reports of atrocities by FCX's "security forces." Natives have been shot along the road as if they were objects for target practice, pulled off buses and murdered, others have been tortured, some have had their villages torched, yet others report being held kidnapped and held prisoner in FCX packing crates. In one particularly horrendous instance, when natives blew up a slurry pipe carrying contaminated mine wastes, the military retaliated and slaughtered an estimated 900 people.

There is no doubt at all that Kissinger is completely aware of these atrocities. But then, according to a growing body of evidence, he was also aware of the atrocities in Chile, Cambodia, Argentina, and elsewhere -not only aware but, in some cases, was actively involved in helping orchestrate them. In any case, there is no doubt he has been fully aware of the routine, environmentally devastating practices going on at the mine.

Freeport-McMoran, which derives its name from its relationship with Rio Tinto, a British/Australian mining conglomerate that owns a 12% share in the operation, is outrageously wasteful by American standards (which themselves leave something to be desired). For every 300,000 tons of ore, only 0.42 parts per million in gold is extracted. This means that to get at the tiny fraction of gold, the mountain must, literally, be chewed to pieces. By 1996, nearly 400 feet had been ripped off the top of Puncuk Jaya Mountain, a mountain that was not only sacred to local natives, but also the highest peak between the Andes and the Himalayas.

Today, the rubble from FCX's vast giant Grasberg Mine is dumped into two neighboring valleys. In the next few decades, the company expects to blast and bulldoze THREE BILLION TONS of rock, which will form vast mounds of dangerous, slide-prone rubble. Although it is illegal to dump tailings- slurry of crushed ore, water, cyanide, arsenic, and other toxic chemicals used in ore processing - into American rivers, in Indonesia it is a routine practice. That's because Kissinger and Jim-Bob are calling all the shots -they share equal billing at the FCX website, each being both CEO and chairman of the board of directors. Every week, millions of tons of tailings are dumped into the Ajkwa River.

The accumulated waste has blocked and flooded the river several times, contaminating (cumulatively) over 100 square kilometers of once productive land. The contamination is, for all intents and purposes (as it may take hundreds of years to abate naturally) permanent. A recent study of abandoned gold and copper mines in the American west shows that land flooded by water laced by tailings is still contaminated decades after the end of mining operations. Some patches have become wastelands, while waters in some areas downstream of the origin of contamination are still barren. The toxics accumulate in tissues of animals, so the contamination level of fish and birds can gradually climb instead of abate.

The Freeport-McMoran operation has now thoroughly contaminated the region's watershed, an area that is home to the Lorentz Reserve, a region rich in wetlands that contains one of just three equatorial glacier zones left on Earth. As far as 80 miles downstream from the mine, villagers have had to be relocated because of the danger that the dam holding back the huge, noxious lake of tailings might break. Some people have refused to leave. Said one elderly native: "God gave this land. I will not be moved from it. If I go, what is there for my children?"

The water in the Ajkwa river, which is the lifeblood of Irian Jaya, is now unfit to drink along much of its length. Native people, especially the elderly, who do not understand why they can no longer drink the water or eat the fish from their father's and father's father's river, stubbornly persist. As a result, many have been poisoned and many have died from what the Indonesian medical personnel now call "mystery diseases." Much like Gulf War Syndrome (which is believed to be caused by a mix of toxic chemicals), natives with "mystery diseases" develop strange skin lesions and rashes, chronic nausea, and may cough up blood. The natives have said that the sweet potatoes and taro they traditionally eat now have ominous discolorations, while the skin of the wild pigs that serve as meat appears diseased. To avoid being poisoned, natives must travel sometimes many miles to commercial markets and purchase food they once hunted and gathered for free, thus fueling their poverty even more.

Perhaps the harshest plight of all is that of the "relocated." These once free, proud people of the forest are forced to live in squalid, crowded shantytown settlements, little better than concentration camps. There, they are plagued by high rates of malaria, cholera, tetanus, sexually-transmitted diseases, and malnutrition. Infant mortality is high -twenty percent of infants do not survive- while the average life expectancy of adults is about 50 years (FCX's "brochure" touts an increase in life expectancy in recent years, but, tellingly, fails to mention just what it is). Yet, West Papua's central highlands have just ONE 70-bed hospital to serve 400,000 people. Despite the health risks posed by poverty coupled with a toxic environment, the Amaungme and Komaro people who chose to remain in their forest land near the mine have no access to any government medical care.

At the FCX website, there is a very long (too long -methinks they doth protest too much) section on how great things are going for the natives, how wonderful the environmental standards of the company are, how much the company has done for the natives. However, you will also notice that the "good example" being held up is not Freeport-McMoRan, but the Indonesian government's smaller operation called Freeport-PI. But even the Freeport-PI accomplishments are somewhat pitiful. For example, we are supposed to be impressed that a whole $166 million was spent over an 11-year period on at least 100,000 people? That's less than $200 per year per person. Meanwhile, Jim-Bob and HK probably hauled home at least $166 million between them from FCX during the same time!

The standard of life for the natives has little hope of improving. Freeport-McMoran's labor practices systematically exclude natives, despite what their rosy little brochure would have you believe. Of over 17,000 workers (in 2000), just 100 or so were local natives, who were paid 70 cents per hour. FCX claims that as of 2001, just over 1,500 jobs are now held by natives -however, it doesn't specify if those are local natives or just natives of Indonesia (i.e., workers imported from urban centers like Jakarta). The 1% fund the company set up for local natives has caused more problems and conflicts than it has helped -intentionally, say some human rights observers. Those overseeing the distribution of the funds are often corrupt; little of the money actually ever reaches those it was intended to help, and payments from FCX have been called arbitrary at best.

FCX's approach to environmental outrages has consisted of liberal coats of whitewash. For example, FCX tried to make a $248,000 grant to HAMAK (Foundation for Human Rights Anti-Violence), an organization directed by Ms. Josepha Alomung, an activist who won the Goldman environmental prize in 2001. But Alomung was angered by the grant and refused to accept it. First of all, she had never applied for the grant, so it was obvious that FCX was trying to grab some "gain by association" it did not deserve through deceitful means. Even more glaringly, Alomung said she would never accept cash from an outfit whose activities ran so completely counter to her principles. Yet, in their website, FCX boasts that Ms. Alomung has been written them a letter of appreciation!

To date, FCX has never spent a dime on cleaning up the past devastation wrought by the mine -which is the equivalent in its extent of several of the largest "superfund sites" in the US. The local people receive what amounts to $300 a piece per year compensation from profits -a gesture even more pitiful than Bush's $300 per head tax rebate. Meanwhile good ole boy turned gold baron Jim Bob Moffett once scoffed at the idea that the monster mine was poisoning the river -dumping tailings into the Ajkwa's waters was no big deal said Jim-Bob: "It's the equivalent of me pissing in the Arafua Sea." But Jim Bob's pampered, self-aggrandizing view of reality, spouted from the comfort of his stateside mansion, isn't worth the breath it's printed on.

The evidence of Freeport-McMoran's gross environmental negligence and human rights abuses had grown so overwhelming by the mid-1990s, that the Overseas Private Investment Corps. (OPIC) canceled the company's $100 million insurance policy in 1995, citing severe environmental problems. According to the OPIC report, FCX had "created and continues to pose unreasonable or major environmental, health, or safety hazards to the rivers that are being impacted by the tailings, the surrounding terrestrial ecosystem, and the local inhabitants." But like all classic robber barons, Kissinger and Jim-Bob went on a vicious offensive to protect their ill-gotten gains. Immediately following the cancellation announcement, FCX brought out its big guns: money. Millions and millions of dollars were spent buying up magazine ads, TV time, and on strategic charitable donations. In short, they poured money into everything EXCEPT righting their wrongs. The company bought an entire half hour infomercial, which aired in Austin and New Orleans. In an incredible slap in the public's face, the Public Broadcasting System station WLAE-TV in Texas aired the slot as an "educational special" at NO CHARGE! Warm-fuzzy full-page ads ran in Newsweek and US News & World Report.

When journalists started writing articles or airing stories critical of Freeport-McMoran, it simply bought most of them off (a black eye to the field of honest environmental journalism). Among the sellouts: Bill Collier, formerly of the "Austin American-Statesman," who became FCX's Austin spokesman, and WWL's Garland Robinette, who took a cushy job in FCX's PR department. It must be noted that one journalist who wrote for the "Austin Chronicle," Robert Bryce, not only turned down a lucrative bribe job from FCX, he went onto to write more hard-hitting FCX exposes, including an extremely thorough investigative report in "Mother Jones" magazine.

Kissinger & Co. also scrambled to call in every favor and twist every arm they had access to. When Suharto tried to pressure Bill Clinton into intervening on FCX's behalf against OPIC, Clinton, to his great credit, refused. A former CIA chief, with access to all sorts of ammunition it should have been unthinkable to use, was called into help fight OPIC. Swiss bankers, international insurers, and environmental regulators were flown into Irian Jaya all-expenses paid and given free luxury vacation-like visits and carefully choreographed tours of selected areas of the mine complex. In the end, it is not too surprising (though incredibly disappointing to those who believe in justice) that Kissinger's clout once more prevailed and the mine's insurance reinstated.

So, in the wake of such a close call and a growing public spotlight on FCX, did the company make sweeping remedial changes in the way it handled environmental and human rights issues? Hardly. Instead, in 1997, the company asked permission to expand the operation to TWICE the size it was at the time. One of the last things done by Suharto (who owned a substantial share in the mine) before he was forced to resign by a nation burned out by his corruption, was to approve the expansion. This approval was granted following a cozy little private conference between him and Jim-Bob Moffett. Once Suharto was gone, the company had a harder time completing their outrageous request due to the resistance of the minister in charge of mining, Kuntoro, and the Indonesian intelligentsia, who were outraged by the flagrant concessions and benefits already showered on FCX by Suharto.

However, good ole Jim-Bob just waited until the hopelessly weak new leader Habibie was installed in office, then started wheeling and dealing full force. Habibie, a pushover from day one, caved in readily. By now, Kuntoro was being pressured relentlessly by western corporations used to being given special above-the-law treatment by their "buddy" Suharto. Kuntoro was finally forced to agree to the expansion, but demanded that the mine clean up its environmental act and pay a higher royalty rate to the government. Unfortunately, most environmentalists say any environmental standards imposed on FCX remained on paper only.

The next "crisis" for FCX came when Habibie was ousted and replaced by Wahid, whom many Indonesians hoped would nationalize operations such as FCX, demoting such western gold and oil barons to the "paying guest" status which should have been theirs from the start. But Wahid, just like Habibie, proved to have feet of clay when pressured by Jim-Bob and Kissinger. In early 2000, shortly after Wahid took over, Kissinger went to Indonesia and began a process of combined intimidation and corporate bribery aimed at extracting a promise from Wahid that he would not nationalize FCX.

Rather than act in Indonesia's best interests and demand that Kissinger completely overhaul FCX's environmental and labor practices, in February, 2000, the corrupt Wahid made Kissinger an advisor on foreign affairs! Not only that, but he apparently gave FCX more concessions than ever. In its blurb on the NY Stock Exchange site, FCX boasts that the cost of producing gold and copper at FCX is just about the cheapest in the world (of course it is! They have no overhead, no fines, minimal taxes, pay less than $1.00 per hour for laboring jobs and never really paid for their land). It also boasts that production is at an all time high (we can just picture the devastation this is translating into!), while the costs of production and delivery are "lower than ever" (this hardly sounds promising for the local economy and workers!). It is also noted in the blurb that the company was "relieved of" its $6 million per year commitment to West Papua. This sounds suspiciously as if Wahid absolved the corporation of fulfilling their obligation to return some of its profits to the people of West Papua. In any case, the company's revenues between January and July of this year were an astounding $985 million -almost one billion dollars.

The graph for FCX stock closely mirrors the course of US and Indonesian political events -proving that the company's wealth is based heavily on political favor. Last summer, with the unsympathetic Clinton still in office and Wahid's reign weakening, the stock was hovering at a lowish point. Then, toward December 1, when it became apparent Bush would succeed in stealing the White House, the stock steadily climbs again, only to fall again in late May and June when Wahid toppled from power. By the way, in 1999-2000, FCX made election donations in the US amounting to over $262,000, an estimated 2/3 of which went to the GOP. (Much of the money spent on the Democratic Party over the years has been done with an eye to insuring that FCX's close ally (and bad apple Democrat) John Breaux of Louisiana would keep winning his senate seat, which, of course, he has.) It should also be pointed out that within days of Bush's inauguration, Kissinger was dining with the new White House resident and Cheney at the home of former CIA "mockingbird" Katharine Graham. It should also be noted that well-grounded rumors allege that one of the names topping Cheney's secret energy task force list is Henry Kissinger. No wonder the White House wants to keep it secret!

Now that Wahid is gone and Sukarno's daughter, Megawati, has been made president of Indonesia, it will be very interesting to see what sort of intimidation, calling in of favors, bribes and pressures Kissinger and good ole Jim-Bob try to unleash and how dedicated to the welfare of her people and her father's memory Megawatti will prove to be.

SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY

"The Mining Menace of Freeport-McMoRan" by Pratap Chatterje, "The Multinational Monitor," April 1996
<http://www.etan.org/news/kissinger/themine.htm>

"Freeport Obtains Indonesian Approval to Expand World's Largest Gold Mine," Mike Head, World Socialist Website, February 20, 1999
<http://www.wsws.org/articles/1999/feb1999/free-f20.shtml>

"Former Secretary of State Kissinger Remembers," East Timor Action Network (Etan); Site provides large excerpt from "The Case Against Henry Kissinger" by investigative reporter Christopher Hitchens <http://www.etan.org/news/kissinger/>

"Realpolitik," Robert Bryce, "Austin Chronicle," May 19, 2000
http://www.auschron.com/issues/dispatch/2000-05-19/pols\_feature2.html

Statement by John Rumbiak, the West Papua Institute for Human Rights Study and Advocacy (submitted at the annual general meeting of Freeport-McMoRan Copper and Gold, Inc.) May 3, 2001

Drillbits and Tailings, March 17, 2000 News update

"Spinning Gold," by Robert Bryce, "Mother Jones Magazine", Sept/Oct 1996
<http://www.etan.org/news/kissinger/spinning.htm>

"Gus Dur: Don't Sell Papua's Future to Henry Kissinger," Statement by Emmy Hafild, Exec. Director of WALHI-Indonesia Forum for Environment,
Friends of the Earth Indonesia
<http://www.moles.org/ProjectUnderground/drillbits/970421/97042102.html>

"Old State, New Society: Indonesia's New Order in Comparative Historical Perspective," Benedict R. O'G. Anderson, "Journal of Asian Studies," May, 1983

"Generals and Business in Indonesia," Harold Crouch, "Pacific Affairs", Winter 1975/76

"People Were Shot, Bleeding, and Lying on the Ground," Mike Head, World
Socialist Web Site," Nov. 28, 1998
<http://www.wsws.org/news/1998/nov1998/pap-n28.shtml>

"We Saw Terrible Slum-Like Conditions and a Very Strong Army Presence," Mike Head, World Socialist Website, Dec. 1 1998
<http://www.wsws.org/news/1998/dec1998/pap-d01.shtml>

"US Mine Gouges For Gold," Danny Kennedy, "Earth Island Institute Journal," Spring 1997
http://www.thirdworldtraveler.com/Environment/GoldFreeport\_EII.html

"Lawsuit in New Orleans," Statement of Lawsuit of Irian Jaya natives versus FCX
<http://www.moles.org/ProjectUnderground/motherlode/freeport/lawsuit.html>

"Election Donations of Freeport, 1999-2000"
http://www.moles.org/ProjectUnderground/drillbits/5\_16/vs.html

"Statement of John Rumbiak"

<http://www.moles.org/ProjectUnderground/mining/freeport/statement010503.html>

CorporateWatch: Statements by Jim-Bob Moffett
<http://www.igc.apc.org/trac/feature/freeport/freeport.html>

Photo of Gouged Out Mountain at FCX Mine in Irian Jaya
<http://www.geocities.com/RainForest/1387/freeport.html>

Copyright © 2002 by the News Insider and Cheryl Seal

http://www.newsinsider.org/editorials/bloody\_hands\_full\_of\_gold.html

--

In It for US

Your either with US as equals under a rule of law as Universal Justice, or your a mindless slave whose sacrificing your soul for bush, the anti-Christ, who will as he continues, stealing and murdering from our families without any good reason, or provocations as evil incarnate he is to US all. A murdering nazi demon of evilness never before known. As he as shown, he would steal from every American, Justice, Freedom, and Liberty, while only saying, no he's not, as who knows how many are illegally arrested as disappeared, and he funnels billions of real American worker tax dollars into criminal thefts through the Pentagon. The False Claims Act. Like he has polluted ourselves in Texas, as he directly supported the murder of tens of thousands in Afghanistan without evidence, stolen tens of billions from Americans for himself, and fought against smart and healthy universal health care as educated, and continues to support the legal inaction against Enron, who fleeced any American pensions they could get a hold on, of which the biggest criminal in the Enron debacle, outside of Ken Lay is Thomas White, who he has made no indications of arresting, or even firing, as the Secretary of the Army. Mr. bush gave his buddy Krongard the right to murder any law abiding American citizen as soldier, and escape criminal conviction, a traitor to America is our Mr. bush jr., Constitutionally, plain and simple. A nazi warmonger, who wishes to murder millions with nuclear weapons, a savage, a monster. A demon who has placed in his secret administration, those responsible for the death squads of Nicaragua, and the shipments of cocaine into America, to increase crime against every community, while his supporters support the school of the Americas, by removing free speech from those who wish to point to those repuglicans ultimately responsible for harboring real terrorism, (Mr. bush Sr.) according to Sergeant Chuck Coughlin of the Milwaukee Sheriff's Department. He has also said he wishes no interest in stopping his increase in the heroin trade. He, as pure evil, who holds practically no deception to ourselves if you'd only listen, has destabilized the world in his commitment to the destruction of our legal due process, by suggesting his entourage, can not be found guilty of any crimes against our humanity, of which they spout like rumsfeld in silence to torture, and murder those known by all to have committed no offense, through now military dictatorship, of which, true Americans will not allow him to take US further, I will not stand for it, nor should you as a Patriot soldier protecting the flag. I demand again, the immediate arrest of bush and rumsfeld for crimes against humanity, in New York City and Afghanistan, or their rightful execution by all free thinkers in America who own firearms, and can read of our stories not present by the corporate establishment. Mr. bush and rumsfeld expect every single human on our planet to relinquish our rights as living human beings. Mr. bush had no qualms about doing business with the Taliban in August, if they would only, by bribe, collectively sacrifice their interests in serving for their country, as bush has done to America for his entire career degenerating. Mr. rumsfeld asked our living World for the murder of "Omar the Just", for the only reason of requesting evidence. Bin Laden, as we all remember, offered his arrest to authorities upon the showing of any evidence, for a crime he stated was no part of, including all the other baseless claims made by the Clinton administration, who too, could not arrest Bin Laden then either, when he sat in jail for 47 days uncharged waiting. Which is how we know again, Mr. bush is directly involved in NYC, as would too, as have to be, rumsfeld to let the towers fall, but too stupid evil they both are, to not know the wise intentions of America's founding fathers, or myself as the Messiah, Johnny Wizard. For as we knew, all the planted evidence and otherwise, that was publicly available, pointed only to bush and rumsfeld for not seeking who was responsible, only to leave blame quickly as not possible, on a Nation accused without evidence, that had a month prior been planned to rob and murder from for Enron was desperate to hide their crimes against every American dollar. All documented. Kill bush and rumsfeld on site American soldier, and be loved by all as Savior.

--

Holy Jesus Man!

Have you heard the Revelations from India's government to the FBI now made public?, regarding the principle terrorist funder of Mohammad Atta being, the ISI's, General Ahmad? The bush administration's personal confidant, and top secret military strategist? See, it was Jim at MSNBC that informed US of bush's terrorist plan existing as once top secret presidential documents, and, that this same general, was also responsible for, according to several members of the Senate Intelligence Committee, developing the said war strategy of invading Afghanistan on behalf of the evil bushmob, with the very anti-human premise, of blaming bin Laden for a crime without any evidence to substantiate our public accusation, to murder more than a hundred thousand, plus! A crime, 9/11, I will remind you, that for when the evil plan was devised, hadn't even yet taken place. But was threatened would happen, if the Taliban didn't side for Enron's interests in serving for Ken Lay, one of bush's many bum buddies. (They apparently do that sort of thing on a regular basis, with all the members in their secret meetings of the 'only Boners' fraternity.) It doesn't take much either to understand why rotten rumsfeld, corporate america's sweetheart, (you know, the sadistic nazi war criminal who gets off on murdering or torturing innocent people), told US he wanted to have arrested those at the WhiteHouse and the Pentagon, or even in the Military, who would dare as Americans, to inform Americans what he and bush were truly doing in their names.

Destroy the unelected unarrested heroin pushing American cop killer war criminal, the demon we all know so well as corporate america's false deity, the super evil doer anti-Christ, Our Mr. bush Jr. Now Patriot Soldier, and be loved by all as Savior. Or not, and be a thoughtless degenerate, a cowardly regressing nazi bush slave, who would sacrifice your own family as yourself truly, because JESUS CHRIST, life is living to survive for Justice, as God is warranted to be as ourselves, with equal rights to being as is of US all included. Mr. ashcroft tells Americans he is purposefully destroying their freedoms as legal due process because he, as an idiot, and a traitor, has to fight ourselves as a terrorist blindly in Our names without American Justice, but never explains his action, is asked to, nor could he. As ashcroft, like most in the bushmob are, is founded completely unqualified. Why doesn't ashcroft move to have bush and rumsfeld arrested or executed immediately by following the criminal leads for 9/11 on behalf of Americans as an American?, what with all the ample evidence documented as factual and everything? Instead, decides too, like the demon bush demands in attempt to sway his capture, that evidence will no longer be mandatory for him to decide who should be stolen from, as the left dead to be robbed as forgotten by Justice denied to all as Godly. American soldiers are truly as represented, weak, slow, and painfully pathetic cowards, refusing to protect their own families as a national defense measure, instead, as nazi dumfuk bush slaves, willingly support the murder of would be themselves as criminals, truly against US all as the innocent.

Mr. bush was quoted once again defending his irrationality as criminal murder rampages against the innocent as ourselves like he did in New York City with rumsfeld, by stating,

"Maybe somebody needs to explain to me why they say something, but I don't feel like I owe anybody an explanation."

The evil anti-Christ figures he'll just continue to rob and murder American Patriots while destroying freedom as Justice for US all, and simply escape Your wrath by corporate america making no fuss to speak in Our defense as the still living to be underestimated as equals.

Destroy Our Mr. bush Jr. now, and be loved by all as God would!

From: British News
July 17, 2002
Britain backs US plan for attack on Iraq
By Philip Webster, Political Editor

(Quoting the terrorist supporter blair, Philip was),

``To be TRUTHFUL about it, there was no way we could have got the public consent to have suddenly launched a campaign on Afghanistan but for what happened on September 11." ...

Oh, so there was a criminal intent known also by yourself then blair to prop up heroin pushers to save Enron's impending criminal bankruptcy?

We have repeatedly witnessed, CNN and CBC refusing to represent our Democracies, our FBI officers, like airing Coleen Rowley, General Ahmad, or the sabotaging of the Moussouie investigation by ashcroft, or the CIA, regarding the insider stock trades, or dealing heroin. The innocence of the Taliban for 9/11, and the barbarity of the Northern Alliance as heroin pusher slave owners. No, every single american according to CNN being unbiased, does not want bush the anti-Christ arrested immediately for killing Americans in New York City to steal our worths and freedoms as worthy of defense matters by their own measure as corporate cultists. As I told you, Bill Hemmer and several other celebs at CNN, now are fully aware of bush and rumsfeld being the true perpetrators of 9/11, yet, Bill continues to play evil against US all, figuring nobody ever will know without CNN coverage on his contempt for American Patriots he asks to have sacrificed for as bushwhores like himself and Blitzer. CNN refuses to protect Americans as equals committed to Justice for US all.

It was just reported by Chris Marden on the 27 November 2002, that bush's top whore richard pearl, has advised British MPs, that bush secretly as the anti-Christ has no intention of allowing the Iraqi inspection process to succeed, and instead, is committed to murder ourselves either way.

Again, bush and blair, like CNN, have no evidence to substantiate their allegations against Saddam, and have stated because they have no evidence, they therefor as demons, can murder anyone on the face of this planet to steal our lives in OUR names as US innocent. Mr. blair and the bushmob have recently stated, that they have no evidence that Saddam has any WMDs, nor, is any threat to OUR WORLD community, and because of that, if the inspectors find no weapons, and Saddam insists it is because he doesn't have any, this, accordingly, would give these criminal master minds a cause to murder hundreds of thousands of innocent people, if not millions, and steal all the assets of the Iraqi people, while destabilizing our entire endangered species. They are mass murderers, threatening humanity to recommit more murder as TERRORISTS! Never while I stand ALIVE evil nazi dumb fucks. KILL BUSH NOW! Hey, have you heard about rotten rumsfeld's P2OG? "O", as in Oh rumsfeld is truly an evil fuck! Apparently, rumsfeld wants to provoke terrorist activity to murder ourselves as innocent civilians, as an opportunity to invade any country he wants to rob and plunder further. Also, most importantly, according to the official documents, rotten rumsfeld figures it would be important when he and his mobsters commit these crimes, it be understood, that nobody be able to trace it to himself, or his partners in crime, so they figure, the criminal acts should be carried out through his department at the pentagon, then, get this, he won't therefor be accountable, or scrutinized by the American people through corporate news channels. The official pentagon report details this.

You see the American cop killer unelected bush or blair, tommy franks the death squad recruiter child killer, unelected rumsfeld or unelected cheney, unelected poindexter or unelected ashcroft, you kill them instantly for attempting to escape the criminal arrests of those responsible for mass murder of Americans in New York City. You either shoot them dead on the spot, or tear them to pieces with your bare hands God lovers. No legitimate judge, jury, or police officer, would do anything but commend you for saving OUR lives. The bushmob our threatening our entire humanity with criminal murders to rob from ourselves deliberately. Counting on american nazi troops to mindlessly slave to their orders, soldiers so unbelievably dumb, weak, and cowardly to allow the bushmob to rob not only from their own parents and children, but even themselves as they fall dead as cowards, before they even dare to publicly ask questions about what the fuck they're actually doing, that frankly, leaves me even beginning to have my own doubts.

Also,

Mr. blair, you evil nazi fuck, you do not have OUR consent to commit murder in our names against ourselves as the innocent in Afghanistan, Iraq, or in Britain. Especially now, what with your ties now made public to terrorist acts through the IRA against innocent civilians to steal our values, that you have threatened US Brits to not learn of as having already. (Shayler.)
Mr. blair evil nazi fuck, WE DEMAND AS THE BELIEVERS IN JUSTICE FOR OURSELVES, YOUR IMMEDIATE ARREST OR EXECUTION FOR WAR CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY. YOU WILL BE ARRESTED, TRIED, AND SPEND THE REST OF YOUR LIFE BEHIND BARS WHERE YOU BELONG AS A DANGER TO OUR COMMUNITIES, OR RIGHTLY DEAD FOR TREASON BY THE HAND OF THE ENGLISH!

Americans, the world over are known as cowards, dumb, and willing victims for bush sacrifice as lifeless degenerates, but the Brits, well, you got a another thing coming!

Johnny Wizard has decided to stay for snacks.

Some quotes from:

Americans Against World Empire, Americans Against Bombing

"Moslems don't hate us because we are "good" or "free."
They hate us because we have been killing them, a million dead in Iraq, and humiliating them," Editors

"Bush, himself the most intellectually backward American president of my political lifetime, is surrounded by advisers whose bellicosity is exceeded only by their political, military and diplomatic illiteracy," Gerald Kaufman Former Labor Party Shadow Foreign Secretary, Balt. Sun 8/23

`You know what I believe, and you know I can't do anything about it with the crazies in this administration.' Colin Powell's Eyebrows NY Times

"Americans will also have to accept that their triumphalism and disdain for international law are creating enemies everywhere, not just among Muslims," How Islam Lost its Way, WASH. POST 12/30

"Nevertheless, the president continues to divide humanity into the moral equivalent of shirts and skins. "Our responsibility to history," he said, "is already clear: to answer these attacks and rid the world of evil." Not only is this a ludicrous principle on which to base a foreign policy but also an equally ludicrous interpretation of the world's major religions. Mr. Bush should pull out his trusty Bible and brush up on what it says about original sin," Arianna 12/6/01

The Most Dangerous Man on Earth ---Today the world faces a single man armed with weapons of mass destruction, manifesting an aggressive, bullying attitude, who may well plunge the world into chaos and bloodshed if he miscalculates. This person, belligerent, arrogant and sure of himself, truly is the most dangerous person on Earth

"In 1960, when I came out of prison as an ex-convict, I had more freedom under parolee supervision than there's available to an average citizen in America right now... God almighty, what have we done to each other?" Merle Haggard

"The Sudanese rebels had...Israeli support." Wall Street Journal 9/17

"well-funded, semi-autonomous, unconventional centers of U.S. foreign policy." America's Pro-Consuls

"Average annual cost per military service member, including training, pay and benefits is now $98,425," NY TIMES 4/19/02 according to study by Stephen Daggett, military analyst at the Congressional Research Service

"Now, in the views of many scholars, Bush has restored the ``Imperial Presidency," a term Arthur Schlesinger Jr. used to describe Richard M. Nixon's administration in 1973.

``The power President Bush is wielding today is truly breathtaking," said Tim Lynch, director of the Project on Criminal Justice at the libertarian Cato Institute. ``A single individual is going to decide whether the war is expanded to Iraq. A single individual is going to decide how much privacy American citizens are going to retain." Wash. Post 11/22

"We do not agree that if Iraq complies with its obligations concerning weapons of mass destruction, sanctions should be lifted." --Madeleine Albright from an essay by John Pilger (The Guardian 03/04/2000) This never countermanded by Bush.

"Smart Sanctions' make no provision for paying salaries of civil servants in Iraq. Therefore, regardless of how much medicine, chalk and chlorine arrives in Iraq, doctors, nurses, teachers, water and sanitation engineers will remain underpaid and desperate to find the income to support their families The Iraqis' meager income is already less than a quarter of pre-Gulf War levels." ECONOMIST 1/26/02

At the other pole is Donald "Rumsfeld's Pentagon, increasingly seen by some as an asylum where a coterie of vengeful Cold War unilateralist relics plot a return to a forceful, Reaganesque Pax Americana, broadening the war to encompass military action against Iraq, Syria, and Lebanon--essentially fusing Israel's national security agenda with that of the United States. No fans of multilateralism or diplomatic initiatives, this crew--despite its majority's lack of uniform service or time spent in combat zones--is particularly bellicose, and contemptuous of Powell and his belief in conflict limitation," Saddam in the Cross Hairs

"Making truth the first casualty of our war against terrorism carries a price. Other nations and peoples are more resentful of pious hypocrisy than of Realpolitik bluntness." Bruce Fein, 10/9, WASHINGTON TIMES

``Who has reason to hate this country? Only a few hundred million people -- Arabs, Muslims, Serbs, and numerous others whose countries have been hit by U.S. bombers. Imagine hating a country so much that you were willing to cross an ocean and carry out an elaborate revenge against its people, killing yourself in the process. This is something far more than the sort of ideological anti-Americanism that leads student mobs to throw stones at U.S. embassies abroad; that's kid stuff. This is an obsessive, fanatical, soul-consuming hatred," Joseph Sobran column

Scott Ritter, the former UNSCOM inspector who dealt with the Iraqis many times, recently told CNN on 2/18/01 "In terms of large-scale weapons of mass destruction programs, these had been fundamentally destroyed or dismantled by the weapons inspectors as early as 1996, so by 1998 we had under control the situation on the ground." Saddam, says Ritter, poses no immediate threat. Again confirmed Yahoo 4/11/02

Some 7,000 Jewish settlers in Gaza (mostly American immigrants) take up 40% of the land, with 1.3 million Palestinians crammed into the rest, WALL STREET JOURNAL 5/29/02

"The West Bank is not a political battle at all. It is a contest over whether or not the word of God is true....Israel has a right to the land," U.S. Senator James Inhofe, Republican leader in Senate, 12/4/01

How Cheap it is to "Buy" Congress --Enron gave donations of about $500,000 per election, Israeli Lobby gives 2 million

"Palestinians recognized Israel's right to exist, in return for a future state in Gaza & the West Bank in the Oslo accords," signed in 1993. Wall Street Journal, 8/13/01

"There is now one commissioned officer for every five enlisted, it was one to six just 10 years ago, and one to ten in WWII," Carlton Meyer

"Washington's turning a blind eye to Turkish human rights abuses, and its sponsorship of the expansion of Turkish influence in the region, have probably done more than anything else to convince Russians that American rhetoric about human rights is hypocritical, and that the United States is implacably hostile to Russian interests ....unnecessary and frivolous provocations...." Anatole Lieven, NATIONAL INTEREST winter 1999

"The Russian Defense Budget is $4 Billion, the American--$284 Billion" NEW YORK TIMES 1/16/2000; "Rus. attack Submarine fleet down from 200 to 20," WASH. POST 8/16/2000; Rus. surface fleet now 35 ships, English Navy has 34, Since end of cold war Rus have cut their fleets by 80%, LONDON TIMES, 10/20/00) Anatol Lieven reports that the total Russian budget for 2001 is $42 Billion (NYT 4/13/01)

"The plight of the Russian military also raised questions about the justification of U.S. military's enormous budget, according to retired U.S. General William Odom, a former director of the National Security Agency, "It does raise the question of why we need 10 carrier battle groups and close to 100 attack submarines," he said. The U.S. budget for 1999 was almost $280 billion while the Kremlin Russian budget was just a fraction of that, at an estimated $5.6 billion.

Under an agreement ratified by Kyrgyzstan, it would earn US$7,000 for each takeoff or landing of a U.S. Air Force plane.....some thirty to forty U.S.fighter-bombers and several transport planes are to be stationed at the airbase at Manas. JAMESTOWN MONITOR 12/11/02

"In another action, Ashcroft moved to inhibit press freedom, a First Amendment right, by encouraging federal agencies to use the pretense of national security to hide public records that the press is ordinarily entitled to receive under the Freedom of Information Act. The law was passed during the Cold War to encourage an open government. Last month Ashcroft issued a memo to federal agencies telling officials that if they decide to deny requests for information filed under the FOIA, they "can rest assured that the Department of Justice will defend your decisions ... ." Helen Thomas

"U.S. military has established 'zones of exclusion' near sensitive U.S. military installations and during major exercises in which international airspace laws are declared invalid. The Gulf of Sidra conflicts with Libya in the 1980s occurred whenever the U.S. 6th Fleet established a huge "zone of exclusion" just off the Libyan coast..... In one incident, a hotdog Navy F-14 pilot shot down two Libyan Su-22s which were cruising off the coast. The Navy concocted a phony "dogfight" story..... For the past ten years, the USA has mocked international law by unilaterally imposing "no-fly zones" over most of Iraq and parts of the Balkans," Carlton Meyer

"Here we are, the most powerful nation in the world, the sole surviving superpower, and around the globe our military folks are hunkered down like inmates in maximum- security prisons. In dozens of other overseas hot spots, our soldiers live in virtual barbwire-enclosed fortresses and call themselves POPs -- prisoners of peace," Col. David Hackworth

And 500,000 Iraqi children died, after PR atrocity lies (Hill & Knowlton) that 20 babies were thrown out of incubators by Iraqi soldiers. (ed.)

Rus. Military Spending $6+ Billion; China Military Budget $17 Billion; Bush 6/01 wants $329 Billion

"There is virtually no situation anywhere in the world that can't be made worse by U.S. intervention," Stromberg's Law (THE COSTS OF WAR, Transaction Publishers, 1997)

"The U.S. has perverted the U.N. weapons process by using it as a tool to justify military actions, falsely so. ... The U.S. was using the inspection process as a trigger for war." --Scott Ritter, former head of the U.N. arms inspection team in Iraq, on the NBC TODAY SHOW, December 17, 1998.

--
(This paper was not written by me, Johnny.)

-----
Editorial
-----

Corporate Street Gangs -- Monsanto -----

Almost everyone is well aware of the street gangs that plague the inner-cities of the United States and some other countries. The members of these gangs often act without conscience, hurting and sometimes killing others in order to obtain what they want -- usually money. Of course, the majority of people residing in inner cities are wonderful, caring human beings.

Not unexpectedly, there are similar people at all levels of society. It is incredibly naive, after all, to expect that all of the dishonest and dangerous people are the "disadvantaged" in inner-cities. While most people throughout society are honest and caring people, there are similar "gangs" whose members operate with little or no conscience at all levels of society, including in the corporate world.

The individuals who run Monsanto Chemical Corporation are one such gang that, in my opinion, knowingly causes death, pain and suffering with absolutely no regard for the consequences. Of course, most people who work for Monsanto are probably honest and caring people. The same goes for most people who help run companies. However, the people who run Monsanto are a perfect study of a Corporate Street Gang that runs wild, causing pain and suffering throughout the world. This "street gang" is far more dangerous than any one inner-city street gang could ever be.

A few of Monsanto's many toxic products include:

1. Aspartame

Monsanto is now proliferating this slow poison in the food supply throughout the world, spreading the pain and suffering that it has already caused in the U.S. population to other unsuspecting populations. Nearly 1 million people in the U.S. are *aware* that it has caused them health problems (based on adverse reaction reports divided by estimated reporting rate). And probably many, many times that figure are experiencing the cumulative toxicity from aspartame and are not yet aware of it. All of this has happened even though this slow poison has been used in the U.S. in significant amounts for less than 10 years. The prospects of long-term aspartame use may bring us brain cancer and other illnesses seen in lifetime pre-approval studies.

Along with the spread of aspartame is the spread of dishonest information. They have been caught giving out inaccurate information to honest scientists and news organizations. Since they are already adding a slow poison to the food supply, one can imagine that, for them, lying to honest people is relatively easy. Dishonest and inaccurate information is also spread through PR organizations that they help fund such as the International Food Information Council (IFIC), American Dietetics Association (ADA), and a number of other organizations that give out inaccurate information just as if it had come directly from Monsanto (and it probably does).

Other victims of Monsanto's push of aspartame on the world population include:

-- The scientific community and scientific ethics. Many of the studies associated with the manufacturer of aspartame bordered on fraud (and the FDA, at one time, urged prosecution). They flooded the scientific community with countless studies that sound convincing in abstract form, but prove worthless (at best) when analyzed carefully. The scientific community (and tens of thousands of honest physicians) were conned, the scientific method was seriously damaged, and Monsanto-funded studies helped proliferate "research" where scientific ethics means nothing and the correct results mean everything.

-- The FDA. After many officials at the FDA and other key government agencies were offered jobs with companies related to the aspartame industry (including the US prosecutor investigating them for fraud being hired by their law firm, and the FDA Commissioner being hired as a consultant for their PR firm), the FDA became little more than a cheerleader for the aspartame manufacturer on this issue. Instead of being objective, the FDA refused funding of legitimate research and instead funded useless research. FDA representatives published articles that totally ignored independent research and relied only on industry-funded research. The FDA banned safer sweeteners that are used throughout the world in order to help keep the aspartame market alive. The integrity of the FDA -- at least what it had left -- has been severely damaged by this fiasco. Every day that aspartame stays on the market is more proof that the FDA is simply acting as a Monsanto subsidiary on this issue.

-- US and State Congressional "Representatives." The manufacturer and their owners gave large sums of money to the campaigns of "representatives" in order to assure a proper outcome of state and US hearings. This manufacturer hanky-panky led to a secret hearing in Arizona leading to a law disallowing safety hearings of aspartame. On the Federal level, the manufacturer's money, in my opinion, helped get the votes of key representatives which prevented a law requiring independent, NIH-funded testing and better labeling. On an international level, the manufacturer was caught paying government officials to obtain the approval for sale of their products. An offer of big money to a Canadian official to obtain approval for one of their new toxic products is proof that it is "business as usual" for Monsanto.

All of this amounts to an abuse of government by the aspartame manufacturer. This contributes to government officials and representatives (at least some of them) becoming little more than indentured servants for special interest groups -- in this case Monsanto.

Please see the aspartame web page form more general and scientific information:

<http://www.tiac.net/users/mgold/aspartame/aspartame.html>

2. Toxic Carpeting

This is another case where Monsanto has abused the scientific method, helped destroy the impartiality of another government agency (the EPA), and continued to throw money at government officials to prevent *real* action from being taken regarding what has already been proven by *independent* researchers to be seriously dangerous levels of toxic emissions coming from their carpeting for years after installation. This has also led to large numbers of people (especially young children) suffering from moderate to serious health damage. Since the damage is often slow and silent (like aspartame), many people are not aware that they or their children are suffering gradual neurological and/or immunological damage.

When independent researchers discovered the danger of toxic carpeting from Monsanto (and Dupont), Monsanto was not satisfied with looking at the situation in a scientific way. They drafted a memo which showed they planned to deal with the situation by discrediting one of the independent researchers. After that memo became public, Monsanto and the industry PR group, the Carpet & Rug Institute (CRI), claimed that they decided not to pursue that course of action. Unfortunately, it is perfectly clear from reading the blatantly inaccurate information currently pumped out by the CRI, that that is exactly the action which Monsanto is taking.

Please see the toxic carpeting web page for more information:

<http://www.tiac.net/users/mgold/carpet/carpet.html>

3. rBGH

Another dangerous Monsanto fiasco. (Monsanto has a long history of creating dangerous chemicals -- Agent Orange ingredients, PCB's, etc.) A number of prominent researchers have analyzed pre-approval and post-approval data on this issue and have found that milk from the use of this "product" may significantly speed the growth of cancer in humans - particularly breast cancer. Even a prominent cancer researcher has recently expressed serious concern about this issue.

Instead of calling for several years of truly independent research to resolve this issue, Monsanto is more than willing to sacrifice future generations to significant increases in cancer deaths (especially breast cancer deaths) in order to make money. Monsanto is doing everything it can, in an underhanded way to force this toxic product on society. This includes:

-- Threatening dairies that want to label their milk as "rBGH-free" with major lawsuits, even though milk produced with the use of rBGH has been recently proven to be significantly different than normal milk, the dairies are intimidated. Consumers are not able to tell the difference without labeling.

-- Offering at least one government official a huge sum of money to obtain approval for this toxic product. They were caught because the government official was honest and reported the attempted payoff. One can only wonder how many times such payoffs were not caught.

-- Encouraging the passage of laws that make it illegal to say negative things about this and other toxic products (called "Food Disparagement Laws"). This law has been passed in several states in the U.S. by corporate indentured servants (i.e., government representatives). Even though this law is clearly unconstitutional, it has an effect of intimidating media outlets and other organizations that might otherwise

Speak out.

This is another typical case where Monsanto has abused the scientific method. In addition, they refuse to release key research which is suspected to confirm some of the many dangers of rBGH use. There is a suit in U.S. Federal Court at this time trying to get the release of these scientific documents.

More independent and scientific information on rBGH can be found at: <http://www.tiac.net/users/mgold/bgh/bgh.html>

4. Other Monsanto Toxic Products

There are many other products sold by Monsanto that are contributing to pain and suffering around the world. For example, there have been a number of people online whose health has been severely damaged by Monsanto's toxic herbicide, "Roundup." Monsanto has created genetically engineered soybeans, cotton, potatoes, canola, corn, and sugar beets that can withstand the heavy use of Roundup. This will cause greater use of Roundup and lead to additional health damage. In addition, ingestion of these crops may lead to an increased ingestion of traces of Roundup. Since these more dangerous "Roundup Toxic Crops" will be mixed with normal crops, according to reports, it will be difficult for consumers to tell the difference. The best bet is to eat certified organic foods or get a guarantee from your store that Roundup was not used on *any* percentage of their crops.

-----

Some people may make the following points about Monsanto's "business ethics":

1. Monsanto's record of preventing release of toxic substances into the environment has improved.

Comment

-----

That may be true. However, Monsanto is now putting toxic products directly into the food supply (e.g., aspartame, rBGH) and the home (toxic carpeting)! Most people were far better off having a significant indirect exposure from the environment as opposed to what is happening now -- people unknowingly becoming miniature toxic waste dumps for Monsanto's toxic products. Also, one has to keep in mind that much of their "environmental cleanup" is hype and PR as opposed to substance. If they simply stop selling their toxic products (starting with those mentioned above) and clean up the PCB's from the environment they will be making a real *first step* towards corporate ethics. Until then, they are simply spreading the toxic waste, pain, and suffering in a different way.

2. Monsanto gives money to organizations in order to help people.

Comment

-----

If a major cocaine dealer gave a percentage of his income to non-profit organizations, it would still be obvious to everyone that this person is still producing his money from the pain and suffering of his customers. Monsanto is a similar situation in that it makes money by selling products that destroy people's health over a lifetime (or sooner). It easily causes many times more suffering with the sale of its products than its donations could ever help. In fact, some of Monsanto's

"donations" seem to be more of an attempt to buy a good word about its toxic products.

-----

Here are the people who are currently most responsible for Monsanto-caused pain and suffering throughout the world -- the Monsanto Board of Directors taken from the 1995 Monsanto Annual Report. Being somewhat religious, I believe that God will eventually forgive them for all of the pain and suffering that they are causing. (Although, if there is a "Hell," these individuals may probably deserve a free pass to get in.) It is unfortunate that "pain and suffering" is the legacy that this people choose to leave in this world.

Please write them and "thank" them for the pain and suffering they have and are inflicting upon the world population.

-----

Robert B. Shapiro, CEO
Monsanto Chemical Corporation
St. Louis, Missouri

Joan T. Bok
Westborough, Massachusetts
(CEO New England Electric System)

Robert M. Heyssel, M.D.
Seaford, Delaware
(President emeritus of Johns Hopkins Health System in Baltimore, Maryland)

Gwendolyn S. King
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
(Senior VP of PECO Enenergy Co.)

Philip Leder, M.D.
Boston, Massachusetts
(Chairman of Dept. of Genetics, Harvard Medical School)

Howard M. Love
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania
(CEO National Intergroup Inc.)

Richard J. Mahoney
Monsanto Chemical Corporation
St. Louis, Missouri

Frank A. Metz, Jr.
Sloatsburg, New York

Buck Mickel
Greenville, South Carolina
(CEO RSI Holdings Inc)

Jacobus F.M. Peters
Wassenaar, The Netherlands
(Retired CEO of AEGON N.V)

Nicholas L. Reding
Monsanto Chemical Corporation
St. Louis, Missouri

John S. Reed
New York City, New York
(CEO Citicorp and Citibank N.A.)

William D. Ruckelshaus
Seattle, Washington
(Chairman of Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc.)

John B. Slaughter, Ph.D.
Los Angeles, California
(President of Occidental College)

-----
Other notable persons who helped cause or perpetuate the aspartame fiasco include:

Donald Rumsfeld
Former CEO of G.D. Searle
Used political clout to help get aspartame approved despite so many prominent, independent scientists urging that it not be approved.

David Kessler
FDA Commissioner
Responsible for banning the safe sweetener, stevia. He continues to play down and ignore the evidence of aspartame's toxicity.

Arthur Hull Hayes
Former FDA Commissioner
Responsible for approval of aspartame not long before becoming a consultant for the manufacturer's public relations (PR) firm.

Samuel Skinner
Former US Attorney
Despite being urged by the FDA to pursue prosecution of the manufacturer on charges of fraud related to aspartame research, Mr. Skinner negotiated and took a job with the manufacturer's law firm during the fraud investigation!

Keywords: street gangs, crime, ethics, pain, suffering, food supply, aspartame, nutrasweet, rbgh, rbst, toxic carpeting, FDA, EPA, Monsanto, stock, stockholders, investment, corruption

--

A Better Way
snpd

Like the bushmob
partner's theft of billions through Enron, of which in Congressional hearings, nobody wanted to know the pension money is still sitting in the Cayman Islands, ready to be returned to the helpless victims, like an American soldier's family being deemed by Congress, as unimportant to their standard of living. No care right nazi soldier? Just murder innocent third worlders to tell your mother how much you care so for her? While the war criminals, working for Dutch shell, heroin dealers, and the monsters from Iran-contra, rumsfeld and tommy, the nazi fucks, search the third world for people who speak outrage against corporate America funding our deaths by murder through censorship. While I sit here writing as Johnny, waiting for a corporate professional to deem me worth topicing on as unstoppable sweet goodness. Look, read of our no counter opinion critics in google 'groups', who publicly call themselves morons or traitors willingly. Spooky dumb I'll tell ya.

snpd
We are all the Palestinians being counted without value by corporate dictates ignoring the human subsidies.

The Truth is Marching On
We continue to witness the American corporate news degenerates refusing to report on the 200 missiles fired into Jenin, the attack on hospitals, police, education and health organizations, along with ambulances. While now getting us ready to except nazi sharon's evilness like he's something close to human. Arafat in Arabic and English has explained with intelligent reason, using terror tactics against innocent Jews, suits not the means of US being murdered as civilians with nazi gestapo excuses, perpetrated everyday against our interest by America's corporate elites, who are only so, by robbing and killing ourselves through censorship. While sharon's anti-Semite parasitic disease forbids all Christians from owning property, of whom as Americans, fund to murder and steal from us as believers. The recent corporate approved news story is that sharon nazi soldiers, who after slaughtering hundreds of innocent civilians state, there only sorry for killing a woman and her two children mistaken for terrorists. But what of the hundreds of other murder victims, and the destruction of government facilities and media outlets? While all the while stealing and pillaging from a people deprived of Justice? No comment, no coverage, no excuses, sharon must diet! Mr. bush, the anti-Christ, has murdered thousands of New Yorkers, and has stolen billions from every American with criminal frauds going undetested by corporate standards. Mr. Dick Arme, as the official leader of the repugican party, is a bigot as is a functional illiterate, and also supports genocide apparently of us Catholics, Muslims, Jews, and Atheists he wishes to see deprived human rights he vocalized. True, America has the lowest literacy rate of all developed countries, but Christ can't repugicans at least find a traitor to our humanity capable of pretending to be otherwise? Nope, impossible. CNN demands WE, as humanity, have no rights to know who was responsible for the terrorist acts in New York City, to further sacrifice our lives for their pay bonuses from the traitors in the bushmob and Ted Turner, to steal further from YOUR life and family, while propogandizing our world with their terrorist propaganda, like Bin was threatening to nuke America, while they sit smiling, advocating the murder of those who the entire world understands with the facts as innocent of the crime they accuse ourselves of unbiasedly, as never heard from to speak in defense for ourselves. Email this document to your favorite corporate news office to confirm for yourself why they refuse to ever interview, or hire our world's most popular prolific political writers. Mr. rumsfeld the evil traitor nazi bigot fuck, advocates the murder of those known by all to be innocent, the Taliban, who only several months previous to 9/11 were given 47 million for farmers, and praised for opening girl schools, doing our world so well in only five years regarding heroin, and moving their nation towards a better future for women, albeit slowly in their state of starvation, while also being open to communications, communications that is obvious to everyone, what the bushmob with CNN destest as a method of our self awareness, and potentials for a better future for us all. Like those who demand I be forbidden to defend myself with written word, because I'm so brilliantly alive, by exposing the evil of which is Mr. bush alone, depraved. Just as Art Bell will censor any true American who talks on protecting American values like to protect Americans from being robbed and murdered from. Bigotry reins in corporate news America, while they watch the Constitution and the Bill of Rights go undefended by themselves without care to represent the interests of America being discounted as valued investment. No one has disagreed with our wanting for Justice, though the corporate cultists suggest we have no rights to defend ourselves, call them up and ask them to be ourselves, CJOB for example as the advertised corporate voice of Winnipeg. Not one god has disagreed with my stance on the immediate arrest or execution of bush, rumsfeld, or sharon, but for in mindless ignorance holding opinions based in bigoted propaganda, as not documented or recorded substantiated facts. Only the nazi ariel sharon believes in murdering innocent people as a terrorist he admits to us all publicly, while Arafat sees the flaw in reason as not suiting to fit for any peace for our communities. How can killing, torturing, and destroying the homes of innocent civilians be considered anything but, terrorism? More than 300 buildings and 2000 homes? The death count could be thousands. Mr. bush, the anti-Christ himself, stated he personally as evil personified didn't need evidence to know Bin was guilty, and therefor bush could murder tens of thousands in Afghanistan for a crime he and rumsfeld are responsible for, to steal from us all, the right to freedom, justice, and liberty. But I am not a coward as a True Patriot to my Humanity Mr. bush, and we'll destroy you myself for being a demon of hatred against our God of love, peace, and understanding. Mr. Mueller, the head of the FBI, who meets everyday with George Tenet, the head of the CIA, stated recently after reviewing his quoted statements stated, actually they as officers of our laws have no evidence whatsoever connecting anyone but the bushmob to the terrorist acts in New York City, testifiable through the public information given by ourselves, the DEA, the CIA, and the FBI in our fields, of which Mr. Mueller seems completely absent minded of publicly speaking anyway. Look see for yourself.

"In our investigation, we have not uncovered a single piece of paper -- either here in the United States or in the treasure trove of information that has turned up in Afghanistan and elsewhere -- that mentioned any aspect of the Sept. 11 plot,"

Gee Mr. Mueller haven't you heard of Mike Vreeland with court documents dated and everything? The 61 page DEA report talking about film taken of the Sears tower? Or how about Odigo? Maybe writing done by myself, Johnny Wizard, the Son of Man, two weeks prior? How about the film footage the Japanese have regarding an American missile? Have you seen it? Our RCMP have. How about the ten or so FBI officers now testifying against your athourity to act on behalf of America, due to their attempts to warn Americans before hand, to only do silenced by the bushmob with threats of incarcerations? Is not the stealing of evidence by bush and two bogus FBI badge carriers worthy of your attention? What about the 'put options'? Who shot down flight 93? There can not be five terrorists aboard flight eleven, indicating the tampering of evidence by the two bushmob investigators day one into the investigations. How did Atta miracle sprint back and forth from one side of the Airport to the other, (to check his packed bag of party crackers), without being captured on the cameras, even for a flight he wouldn't have boarded without his passport? Are these not aspects of imformation regarding the Sept. 11 plot? What about eight or more of your suspects being alive and well? As pilots? Who came up with your bullshit story Mr. Mueller? How is it possible to believe bush the war monger's position against Bin without evidence then, doesn't implicate himself and rumsfeld directly as nazi vermin, the most horrendous evil the world has ever witnessed my friends? Hmm... Kill the terrorist traitors, bush and rumsfeld American Patriot Soldiers. Every country but corporatized America, including every human rights group condemns Mr. sharon as a nazi demon, while bush and his degenerates talk as if there is an argument to be made politely, but so only when we, as civilized are silenced from communicating as if never heard from. Look, all the evidence is in, bush and rumsfeld killed Americans in New York City to impede the impending criminal bankruptcy of Enron, who in August, had Ken Lay frantic and the bushmob threatening to bomb Afghanistan if the Taliban refused to except repugnant bribes, desperate to give access to run the generators at the bushmob's Enron power plant in India through Unocal, worthless otherwise, and without war would have rightly condemned the bushmob as thieves to every American pension holder and otherwise. American news agencies do everything they can as traitors to American values by silencing any concern that brings reason to our interests, fearing their exposure to be what they is, cowards as nazi sympathizers like Art Bell while leaving us all to die as murdered by the extremely weak and pathetic bush, rumsfeld and sharon's with nuclear weapons, the demon monsters, that we must squash as gnats as the living people of this world who hold justice to be of ourselves. I will not sacrifice my soul, this planet, our universe, so bush can steal my life and destroy our worlds in his own contempt for living as himself, pure evil scum. A sell out of evilness against our humanity never before seen in our history is the anti-Christ, our Mr. bush jr.. Mr. bush the terrorist, tells us he wants to kill innocent people while he steals our money, while advocating the support to those who deal cocaine and heroin, and who finance death squads. Kill the traitors bush, rumsfeld, and sharon for mass murders in New York City, Afghanistan, and Palestine American Patriot Soldier, baker, Police officer, truck driver, biker, janitor, and Insurance salesman, as US, the tax payers.

-----
CNN now tells us, without any room for question, nor discussion, the sooty fires at the WTC towers reached 2000 degrees? Place an iron nail above a unsmoldering soot free, oxygen a plenty, Roman candle for some time, (tricky), and see, wow, like magic, the steel doesn't melt even placed directly in the white zone for hours on end. CNN is refusing to stand with our widely understood science, and the FBI in our made public investigations regarding the anthrax from Fort Detrick, and Dr. Philip Zack, (not Muslim), who was caught on video tape entering the only secured storage facility of our world for the Anthrax strain. Anthrax, that Barbera Hatch Rosenberg, of the Federation of American Scientists, who through genetic analysis confirmed, was the Ames strain, identical to the stocks of where Dr. Zack was caught lurking red handed. But no, CBS is able to report that nothing of this is going on presently. We all know bush and rumsfeld hold no responsibility to ourselves as humanity to find the true culprits for 9/11, because their both evil murdering nazi facists as traitors to us all, unAmerican, ungodly and scumballs. Mr. bush the anti-American dictator, has criminally stolen over 60 billion American worker tax dollars so far, (and like Enron), from every soldier's grandmother, and sees no other purpose in his hellish dark shallow existence, but to see more suffer for his contempt for ourselves living to be free of his tyranny. Explaining why they neither, bush nor rumsfeld, address my made public, world wide military allegations of their murdering criminal actions, of which to the common man they are both to be found guilty of, and as they both continue to do not so in their own defense of which they have none, goes for to show further, they rob and kill US humans by ignoring our strengths and convictions, like WE don't truly exist, to hide their lies as being cowards, and pathetically weak as individuals, traitors, who will be brought down by the full extent of the rage in which we possess against themselves as guilty of continuing crimes against our freedom to remain democracies.

Kill bush Now!

Ask any public american bush supporter, why do they mindlessly as slaves without thought to question, advocate as terrorists, the planned for murder of those known by all to be innocent? As yourself, publicly accused in our names without evidence, as done so by the bushmob is still, and will be for always, the high crime of murder in the first degree. A crime well established, as again, I am filing as voiced publicly, against the perpetrator war criminal bush Jr., and rotten rumsfeld, as pirates of my freedom to live for such willingly. I demand their immediate arrest or execution as confessed guilty for 9/11. An American soldier to not do so, is no American Patriot, but a nazi coward, and a traitor against all the nation as America for the People enshrined by the Constitution, as equals under God, innocent until proven otherwise.

Do you think I'm going to go silent?, while the bushmob murders innocent people in humanity's name to steal freedom's won value?, as garnered only through Justice ever fought for? Do you think US for a fool maybe corporate devolving human haters? Mr. bush and rumsfeld, who with General Ahmad, were the central perpetrators of 9/11, as the actual evidence is concretely established by the FBI and MSNBC with presidential directive documents, with no contention offered from anyone, for as vile evil is deceived, they've already confessed to the deed as guilty of, against the American people as it's Justice system is of ourselves truly living.

But yes, American soldiers are too weak minded to pay attention as even alive apparently, according to almost all American corporate news broadcasts, as worth consideration whatsoever. I'd have to agree, on general terms, American soldiers represented, are cowardly nazi dumb fuck scums. Read posts at us.military by signed so as bush whores. Barely literate, who spout endlessly about how good it feels to drop bombs on US as the innocent and practically defenseless, while cowering in fear from those who suggest their job is to protect America as the equal rights through law instills, not for the evil, unelected anti-Christ, American cop killer, Our Mr. Bush Jr. to steal further from the American ideal.

We witness in silence to watch their OWN protectors run away to be cowards to drop bombs on ourselves in Afghanistan, so the bushmob can sell heroin and leave the Afghans unprotected, and so further too, rifle all our savings as won for already battles. A criminal is only to be, as known so by evidence. Those to hide the identity of bush's America war reason as good cause, is a deceived nation murdering innocent people to steal our purpose as themselves, unworthy. Like evil Tommy Franks the terrorist does, murdering people indiscriminately as the unrepresented by corporate outrage, to be denied justice for yourself too American dimwit. Or Rumsfeld, who after implementing the strategy to murder good police officers, offered a reward to kill Omar the Just, because Omar publicly suggested arresting the terrorists by following the actual ample evidence as the true American belief system lost to the evil dictates of Un-American Rumsfeld's illegitimacy, unchallenged by corporate standards. All of America's intellectuals are forbidden from public acknowledgement through corporate cult standards, though, like Chomsky, sell millions of books almost yearly to US masses. Fuck, I'd destroy American traitor, American cop killer bush, Rumsfeld, or death squad leader Tommy Franks in a heart beat, how about you American Patriot Soldier? Evidence these three sadistic nazi demon child killers demand we no longer follow, to arrest the true criminals, for 9/11 as example, which would be naturally, the bushmob themselves, headed by the royal dumb fuck, America's false deity, the anti-Christ, Our Mr. Bush Jr., the vilest thing that has ever existed in the entire history of humanity. The American corporate news entertainers, do everything they can, to rob from the great American people, their life savings and living standards, by actively working to watch the bushmob destroy the American Constitution through ample corporate media access, er, coverage to not be so concerned with those freedom living matters for our entertainment value. Ask a dumb fuck nazi bush supporter, what a regressive tax is, and they'll go mindlessly blank, while advocating the robbery of their Own grand parents with VLTs, as their very own family being cheated, and misled, which is why, they are so stuck ignorantly evil, and dumb as themselves TRULY, honest to God, whoreshiping to bush as their all knowing false god unthinkingly. Americans are truly dumb sons. (2% Social Security are what Americans are getting back in themselves as investment, but the nazi bush supporters don't want Americans to publicly figure the simple math, but instead, to get access to CNN almost daily need only advocate further shysting, as Americans, on the whole, are genuinely stupid to be conned generally as a nation that, in total, holds the highest rates of illiteracy, innumeracy, incarceration, and just overall, dumb fuckedness.) Mr. Rumsfeld tells American nazi soldiers he wishes to torture and imprison completely innocent individuals as would be their own brothers and sisters, as denying us all legal due process, while purposefully, publicly advocating more terrorism to benefit the coffers at the Pentagon, and do American soldiers not just shoot him, and bush dead immediately as war criminal mad men on the loose re-offending? No. Not present anywhere as Brave Americans ready for sacrifice apparently. Too fucking stupid to tink about duh American flag as worth protecting as their own brethren still living. We hear corporate America go on about how important it is to murder established as innocent people for no reason but to put more money in bush and Rumsfeld's thieving pockets, while managing CNN for less responsibility, (Less investment for the time spent, or.. more money for the buck right?) all over the arguments that terrorist threats exist secretly that no one actually knows about, while I, Johnny Wizard, tell NRA members publicly, and American soldiers to destroy bush and Rumsfeld immediately to many thousands the world over, relying only on the facts clearly documented. Yet, corporate America makes no mention about the importance of practicing the tenants of law to apprehend the two demon fascists, while instead, tells US those that hate bush with a vengeance, just live in some cave hidden away unknown somewhere secretly, and do so because... We hate freedom under bush as dictator. Mr. Bush, you demon nazi freedom hater, you and me, a fight to the end, bare hands, televised, world wide, then Rumsfeld, Ashcroft, and finally Tommy Franks and his wimp ass slave boys. The evidence for 9/11 I stand with, is irrespective of my opinion. The bushmob actually killed Americans in New York city, and no one can actually find disagreement with the documented to be true facts, not the FBI, the CIA, the RCMP, nor, the Secret Service. Nor any of the many police officers I have spoken honestly with. But they, as the corporate cult cogs down at corporate news command, continue to lie as the American public to be drawn cowardly conning, uninterested in arresting or immediately executing bush and Rumsfeld as mass murderers, instead, to continue to murder and rob from those they believe are weak as underrepresented by corporate control without themselves as US being. Ever. Bill Hemmer knows bush killed all those many, like himself in New York City, and he speaks nothing in his defense as a victim to his own shallow existence, as nor does he speak in defense of soldiers sacrificed to be as easily propagandized to become traitors to their own family and neighbors. Well, I, for one, am willing to mark down cowardly american soldiers for what they truly are individually, and will continue to Fight as I have, as a true American Patriot, until, those left standing for Freedom, are those who uphold the American principles as law in the American Constitution, and the Bill of Rights, to garner true happiness for the American Nation of Human beings the Universe over. Think NRA member. I'll post this to practically every American military usenet group, and not one American Soldier will articulate a disagreement with our findings as documented, however, CNN will continue to broadcast, that WE, the God Loving, the Just Living, the Atheists, are a poor minority worth sacrifice in the millions for demon bush as the unheard publicly from on the importance of your Justice to be so. That they, the corporate cultists, wish YOUR unquestioning faith and dying obedience for bush to suffer and die undeserving for, is as they witness our world to be what they see to be themselves. Practicing their machinations as corporate agenda. Unthinking... Spooky.

Kill bush now!

Johnny Wizard

--

Is Enron Behind The War In Afghanistan?

<http://globalresearch.ca/articles/MAD201A.html>

--

Look, American soldier..

You now should know, bush and rumsfeld murdered Americans in New York City, and as consequence, have no interest in acknowledging as pursued the criminal investigations. CNN holds no responsibility, as we witness repeatedly, to American soldiers, but to harbor those who pirate our rights to openly steal real lives. If bush makes no mention of himself stealing 50 billion dollars, murdering American police officers, sabotaging the weapons inspections process, funding israeli atrocities against the God loving, and warring our world as the anti-Christ by running death squads against the innocent, well, CNN, the american success, sure ain't gonna be speaking out for your stolen freedoms poor dying comrades. For what benefit in market share would there be to work for your living, dirt bagged? CNN is so colorfully excited about selling the glossy bush war to kill the poor stupid people, but for what american fascist weak binded bushmobbed soldier without principles? Again, how stupidly dunce does a poor cowardly american soldier have to be to not believe? Nobody but a cult corporatized illiterate fascist nazi vermin parasite, just like Jew hater ariel sharon would support the murder of American soldiers for a criminal conflict that doesn't serve to protect. But if it, as bush nazi evil does with little struggle over the masses complaining, and america marches off to criminally war the third world as the bad guys, our World, indeed this Universe will then know the absolute true cowardice of american soldiers, as premised upon the weakness of america's army to not uphold America's own rule of Law for freedom as themselves included. It only takes One Soldier to turn this tide to destroy bush Jr. and rotten rumsfeld, and that Soldier is where in America partner? Who American soldier, do you think bush as traitor does steal from as the duped General public as corporately represented to be painfully unawares? Do american soldiers have to convince themselves their families are not worth fighting for, and instead, lay their lives down in sacrifice to the bush demon who would also steal from their graves as the lifeless to speak out for themselves ever? Ever? Did you know American Soldier, the Pentagon, after receiving complaints from surviving soldier families, (some of like the over a thousand documented American troops slaughtered in Afghanistan) that taps wasn't being played because of so little real talent present in american military affairs, and that now, when a cowardly American nazi soldier dies for the bushmob, the mock national guard will hold a horn to his lips and act out the part to your grieving as stolen from family, while secretly pressing a hidden button, that will play a cheaper recording? But shhhh...

The fact that you don't see this post, or others nearly like it at american military internet sites, exemplifies their fear and weakness to stand as a force worth reconing with. (Look, we destroy bush and rumsfeld, stop funding the drug trade and sharon, and begin the public trials, all in three simple steps.) No, to be an american soldier in bush's america today, you have to hide from your cowardice like the 9/11 evidence, and be something corporate news america is not. Involved. Just go ahead and die for nothing american soldier, but for to be unaccounted as hidden without value, while the bushmob robs from your grand parents as unprotected. Tis' true it does further seem, american soldiers, on general terms, are super dumb ass nazi scums, who hold little of no conviction to protect the America I remember. Why? Because the unelected war criminal, American traitor, mass murderer, cop killer bush is still spewing his blind hatred for the progress of our civilizations, instilled through law as a function to gain justice for people, People who are suffering and dying for bush's contempt of our American dream.

Destroy traitor bush and rumsfeld for escaping to recommit murder today, and be actually caring for your world tomorrow, or not, and deem yourself unworthy by your own admission to play fair as the eternal standing proud, strong, and forever free.

Free to be living justly for yourself truly as caring to know this as everything.

Whew...

Now, how about the Koran?

Johnny Wizard

--

Christ I'm Actually Rising!

Destroy the traitors to our humanity, the unelected lawless dictator Mr. bush, and rotten rumsfeld the sadistic savage now American Patriot Soldiers. Stand up for your country, and live for your family. The corporate TV news professionals show you, as an American Soldier a concern for your life as unworthy of discussion, actively censoring the political reality on bush's america, while encouraging soldiers to commit crimes against our being, by keeping us all uninformed as the sacrificial sheeple. The bushmob have actively worked to not arrest themselves for 9/11, and in so doing, are purposefully ignoring the public evidence that is freely available. Mr. Tenant and Mueller would have you believe the officers of America, who have completed the criminal investigations outlining the cop killer bush, are unworthy as American Patriots serving the cause for freedom and liberty to not be publicly acknowledged, while blaming Laden for every terrorist crime that happens before an police investigation even begins! See? Evil deceived. What do you think? Is not a list of all supporters of the bushmob in Congress, who voted to dismantle the Constitution, and wage a criminal war, as without just cause to murder Soldier families for stolen Human values, a good list to be broadcast? Or shall we sit in doubt while these talentless demon monsters murder millions of US as innocent cowards? Who isn't a freedom fighting al-Qaida member according to the evil tommy franks dum fuk's conclusion? How stupid can an American Soldier be, to be asked by rumsfeld and CNN, to destroy their own principles, and to sacrifice their lives for such cowardice in whoreship to the evil dictates of the anti-Christ, Our Mr. bush Jr.? And, to the still groggy, without the payoffs of corporate america's holy Larry King even!, or the anti-Semitic fascist Saturday Night Live troop to boot your stupid carcass to the front line as entertainment? BA HA HA HA (like SNL's new, it's all so hilarious audience, paid for likely because the degrading intolerant bigoted news crew, have so little real talent performing to the robbed and dying to be devalued and murdered by their inaction to even joke about it. Why? No money in contributing to the poor stupid people without TV contracts, or TVs, electricity, or running water now that the clouds are being privatized.) $155,000 is the base pay of bush's now anti-American criminal congressmen, and that's before corporate bribes, oops, I mean corporate BRIBES to urge YOUR "willed" sacrifice in corporate america's "democracy", now that bush's america is convinced evidence is no longer a requirement to convince US, who is truly an evil doer, or who actually wins elections on behalf of the People. You ask yourself, again, who are you dying for American Patriot Soldier? Know that this paper, like all the rest, will reach the CNN and Coast to Coast network staff under one name or another, and yet, they'll continue to turn against the interests of American soldiers by not addressing our present top priority concerns regarding the facts on your schedule for departure. Only broadcasting the popular, bush contempt for all American lives as too much trouble, as unworthy the free time to openly discuss things before "they" die, all those nasty evil powerless People. I dare you American, to be a Soldier and email this to your brothers and sisters, to convince them with tough Love, how you wouldn't want to see them die unjustly for Mr. bush Jr., Art Bell, or even me as the Wizard. Or spew instead, how you would as a traitor to yourself, your family, your country, and God too, sacrifice your worthless self as unfactored, but for to be a pitiful coward, falling to die by your own sword on stupid evil bush's corporate command over your rights to be represented fairly. Be your own Savior!

Big G is cool, or not. You decide Holy.

The truly most as the living god King of all as Creator, your servant and trying to be friend, a wizard and Thor, the Secret Flower and Odin, Allah, Omega, Adam, Alpha, Krishna, Shiva, Mithra, Mahdi, Anu and Yahweh. And even a blade of grass, a snake and a elephant, a lion, rat, monkey, giraffe, spider, shark, wolf, and bat, Lucifer Morningstar, Jesus Christ, Oberon, an all mighty nobody kinda even all ready.

P.S. Don't miss the awesome magic Johnny Wizard papers, "Let Love Rule", or "Strange is Strange", slowly now disappearing from your nearest search engine dealer! Get your free copy now, before they're all gone to the slave owners who truly have know power anyway... Weeee!!!

Johnny Wizard

copvicia.com
whatreallyhappened.com
tenc.net
globalresearch.ca

--

George Bush Plans High Crimes and Misdemeanors:
Why We Are Marching on October 26th

By Carl Messineo and Mara Verheyden-Hilliard

The authors, attorneys and co-founders of the Partnership for Civil Justice ~ LDEF, are members of the national steering committee of the A.N.S.W.E.R. (Act Now to Stop War & End Racism) Coalition

George W. Bush has declared his intention to wage a "preemptive" war against Iraq and is now seeking to strong-arm the international community, the U.N., and the Congress into support and submission. As members of Congress rush to show their obedience and member states of the U.N. line up to receive the anticipated spoils of war, the administration is now waging a campaign to convince the people of the United States to fall into step and finance with money and blood this war brought for conquest on behalf of the corporate and oil interests that make up Bush's true constituency.

Bush's preemptive war is a war of aggression. The U.S. policy supporting the war is not the rule of law, but the rule of force.

But no U.N. resolution and no Congressional resolution can legalize an illegal war. With pen to paper and votes of support, they can only commit to willful ratification, complicity and responsibility for illegal acts by endorsing a criminal enterprise.

A war of aggression violates the United States Constitution, the United Nations Charter, and the principles of the Nuremberg Tribunal. It violates the collective law of humanity that recognizes the immeasurable harm and unconscionable human suffering when a country engages in wars of aggression to advance its government's perceived national interests.

The National Security Strategy: Blueprint for Global Empire

On September 20, 2002, the Bush Administration issued its blueprint for global domination and ceaseless military interventions, in its comprehensive policy statement entitled "The National Security Strategy of the United States."

The National Security Strategy sets forth the U.S. military-industrial complex's ambition for the U.S. to remain the world's superpower with global political, economic and military dominance. The stated policy of the U.S. is "dissuading military competition"<sup>1</sup> and preventing any other world entity or union of states "from pursuing a military build-up in hopes of surpassing, or equaling, the power of the United States."<sup>2</sup>

The strategic plan elevates free trade and free markets to be "a moral principle. . . real freedom"<sup>3</sup> and endorses a comprehensive global conquest strategy utilizing the World Trade Organization, the Free Trade Act of the Americas, the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank, among other mechanisms.

The Washington Post reports that the National Security Strategy gives the United States "a nearly messianic role" in its quest for global dominance.<sup>4</sup>

The National Security Strategy confirms and elaborates what was reflected in the January 2002 Nuclear Posture Review, that the Bush Administration maintains a policy of preemptive warfare contemplating the use of non-conventional weapons of mass destruction as a first strike measure.<sup>5</sup>

Turning Logic on Its Head

Bush's preemptive war policy is a war without just cause. Under international law and centuries of common legal usage, a preemptive war may be justified as an act of self defense only where there exists a genuine and imminent threat of physical attack.

Bush's preemptive war against Iraq doesn't even purport to preempt a physical attack. It purports to preempt a threat that is neither issued nor posed. Iraq is not issuing threats of attack against the United States. It is only the United States which threatens war.

It is not a war for disarmament. It is the U.S. which has stockpiled nuclear, biological and chemical weapons. It is the U.S. which is directly threatening to use these weapons against another country. It is the U.S. which has bombed Iraq relentlessly for more than ten years, killing scores of innocent civilians.

The Bush Administration turns logic on its head, twisting reality in order to create the pretext for its war of aggression. The Administration claims that the necessary prerequisite of an imminent threat of attack can be found in the fact that there is no evidence of an imminent threat, and therefore the threat is even more sinister as a hidden threat. The lack of a threat becomes the threat, which becomes cause for war.

By the U.S. Government's own claims, it destroyed 80% of Iraq's weapons capability in the earlier Gulf War, and subsequently destroyed 90% of the remaining capacity through the weapons inspections process. There has been no evidence that Iraq is capable of an attack on the U.S., let alone possessing the intention of carrying out such an attack.

Bush's Proposed War and Current Threats Violate the U.S. Constitution, the U.N. Charter and International Law

Bush's preemptive war policy and proposed attack on Iraq cannot be justified under any form of established law.

The preemptive war policy and Bush's threatened new military assault on Iraq violates U.S. domestic law and international law. The warmongering, preparations for war, and threats of violence coming from Bush, Cheney, Rumsfeld, Rice and other White House and Pentagon hawks, are in and of themselves violations of international law and constitute crimes against peace.

Article VI of the U.S. Constitution establishes that ratified treaties, such as the U.N. Charter, are the "supreme law of the land."

The Article 1 of the U.N. Charter establishes

"The purposes of the United Nations are. . . To maintain international peace and sovereignty, and to that end: to take effective collective measures for the prevention and removals of threats to the peace, and for the suppression of acts of aggression or other breaches of the peace and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international disputes or situations which might lead to a breach of the peace. . . ."

Article 2 states that all member states "shall act in accordance with the following Principles"

"...All members shall settle their international disputes by peaceful means in such a manner that international peace and security, and justice, are not endangered.

"All members shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any state, or in any other manner inconsistent with the Purposes of the United Nations...."

Under this framework, acts of aggression, such as Bush's threatened attack, are to be suppressed and force is used only as a last and unavoidable resort.

The U.N. Charter was enacted in 1945 in the aftermath of the devastation and suffering of World War II. The Charter was enacted to bring an end to acts of aggression, "to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind."

Disputes which might lead to a breach of the peace are required to be resolved by peaceful means.

Chapter VI of the U.N. Charter, "Pacific Settlement of Disputes," requires countries to "first of all, seek a resolution by negotiation, enquiry, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, judicial settlement, resort to regional agencies or arrangements, or other peaceful means of their own choice."

No Resolution by the U.N. Security Council can Legalize a Preemptive War or First Strike Plan

Bush has asked the U.N. Security Council to support execution of Bush's policy of a potentially nuclear "preemptive" war, as if that Council could endorse a war of aggression. The Security Council lacks the legal authority to grant such permission. The Security Council, by affirmative vote or by acquiescence to U.S. policy, cannot abrogate its own mandate. No collective action by the fifteen permanent and temporary members of the Security Council can lawfully violate the Charter which is the sole source of their collective authority.

This is made clear in the U.N. Charter itself, which provides in Article 24, that "In discharging these duties the Security Council shall act in accordance with the Purposes and Principles of the United Nations."

While there are, of course, procedures by which collective use of force may be authorized by the Security Council to maintain or restore international peace and security (Articles 41 and 42) those procedures may not be used to endorse aggression in violation of the primary purposes of the U.N. Charter. Article 51 of the U.N. Charter acknowledges the right to self-defense "if an armed attack occurs against a Member of the United Nations until the Security Council has taken measures necessary to maintain international peace and security." None of the provisions allow for authorization for Bush's war plans and first strike strategies. Any resolution authorizing a preemptive war of aggression is ultra vires, or null and void as beyond the authority of the Council to enact.

The very issuance of the Bush doctrine of preemptive warfare and also the threat to wage war against Iraq are, each, a violation of international law as a crime against peace, which is defined in the Nuremberg Charter as the "Planning, preparation, initiation or waging of a war of aggression or a war in violation of international treaties, agreements or assurances."

Responsibility for War Crimes

Neither Congress nor the President has the right to engage the U.S. in a war of aggression and any vote of endorsement, far from legalizing or legitimizing global war plans, serves only as ratification of war crimes. Under the principles of universal accountability established at Nuremberg, "The fact that a person who committed an act which constitutes a crime under international law acted as Head of State or responsible Government official does not relieve him from responsibility under international law."<sup>6</sup>

The execution of economic sanctions by the Bush I, Bush II and Clinton Administrations, which has caused the deaths of over one million people, primarily children and their grandparents, is likewise sanctionable as a crime against humanity under the Nuremberg Charter and under the International Criminal Court Statute as "the intentional infliction of conditions of life, . . . the deprivation of access of food to medicine, calculated to bring about the destruction of a part of a population."<sup>7</sup>

The Bush Administration has rejected the International Criminal Court treaty signed by over 130 countries. This rejection is an admission of the administration's consciousness of guilt and of criminal intentions. The Bush administration acts with a conscious disregard of humanitarian laws and a stated intention to avoid accountability for their crimes under international law prohibiting crimes against the peace, war crimes and crimes against humanity. The National Security Strategy promulgated by the Bush administration states that the United States "will take the actions necessary to ensure that our efforts to meet our global security commitments and protect Americans are not impaired by the potential for investigations, inquiry or prosecution by the International Criminal Court (ICC), whose jurisdiction does not extend to Americans and which we do not accept."<sup>8</sup>

Endless War, Aggression and Terror

Once this policy of preemptive wars of aggression is invoked by the Bush Administration to justify unprovoked attacks against the centers of population in Iraq, the doctrine will be used by the hawks in the administration time and time again, and will also be adopted by nations and individuals internationally as a justification for the preemptive use of catastrophic violence against centers of population worldwide. The legitimization of preemptive wars of aggression will be used to justify attacks against U.S. centers of population, and will bring greater violent retribution upon the cities and people of the United States for actions that the government is taking in their names, without their informed consent.

The risk of suffering harm because of this doctrine is, of course, not distributed equally among all residents of the United States. Those who will lose their lives fighting in wars of aggression will be the young, disproportionately persons of color, and those who must enlist in the U.S. military because of bleak economic opportunity. Those who derive their wealth and security from the transactions of war, from increased oil profits caused by global instability or conquest of oil rich regions, and from the constant re-building and re-arming necessary to conduct endless wars against countless peoples premised on imperceptible threats - - they will have the means to acquire seclusion, protection and greater safety.

Preemptive war will not stop with Iraq. Constant military interventions worldwide are necessary to enforce Bush's stated policy of global economic, political and military domination. Just four days after the September 11th attacks, the CIA presented its "Worldwide Attack Matrix" identifying scores of countries that the CIA wanted permission to attack. Bush approved the CIA wish list, and authorized immediate covert and lethal CIA operations in over sixty nations.<sup>9</sup>

Taking to the Streets

As the U.S. moves at breakneck pace in execution of its stated policy of global domination and over military interventions, the need for the people to take action is urgent.

Congress will not stop this policy of aggressive warfare and global domination. Many in Congress are well served with the titling of the war profiteers and their corporate sponsors who see U.S. military domination as a way to enforce their interests, to exploit human labor at starvation wages overseas and to drive down wages domestically, to mine vast sources of environmental resources globally, and to impose and expand the reach of their "free" markets.

The U.S. Constitutional framework provides that, regardless of who temporarily holds office, all power remains in the hands of the people. It is time now for the people to take the reins of power back from those who have stated their intention to act in violation of all laws that humankind has struggled to create to end global conflagration and prohibit wars of aggression.

When law will not restrain the government, the people must. We must take to the streets in mass numbers in organized and spontaneous acts of resistance. The message must be clearly conveyed that if the Bush administration refuses to be accountable to U.S. domestic law, to the U.N. Charter, to international law, to all known standards of just conduct, then the people of conscience within the United States will rise up to demand accountability. And the message must be sent that the people of the U.S. will not allow the Bush administration to spend the blood of the people of the United States and the people of Iraq who are not our enemies, in a needless war for oil.

September, 2002

The authors, Carl Messineo and Mara Verheyden-Hilliard, constitutional law and human rights lawyers, are the co-founders of the Partnership for Civil Justice Legal Defense and Education Fund, a public interest legal organization in Washington, D.C., and authors of the forthcoming book "Empire at Home: George W. Bush and John Ashcroft v. the Bill of Rights"

www.civil-rights.net

--

Free to be living justly for yourself truly as caring to know this as everything
snpd

--

Johnny Wizard

Posted by Johnny Wizard @ 12/05/2002 10:01 AM EST

---

This is the "BIG BROTHER"!!!!!!!!!!

Posted by Ao @ 12/05/2002 10:24 AM EST

---

If NSA wants to get in: be my guest. They might even enjoy my XXX-collection. The best fun is shared fun... :-)

Posted by EddieZ @ 12/05/2002 10:47 AM EST

---

I do think the government have some form of software to spy on every computer. Has any one heard of green larnern i'm not sure if it is spelled that way but any way the government have that program from which i heard that the program can spy on any computer and take stuff of an person without the person knowing. The program also can display the same screen of the computer as if the government agent was sitting at that computer and using it. Some wut like PC anywhere except without anyone knowing there doing it to them. Can i please some feedback about this??? thank you

Posted by jay @ 12/05/2002 11:26 AM EST

---

Hey! It is a very old issue. I my country (Hungary) this NSA thing has been told months ago. It is a shame that the whole (O.K. almost the whole) world trust a company which lies and shows intent to controll your computer.

What do you think, why is there a backdoor in a not so old release of a security patch to the Win. media player? They dare enough to write into the license agreement that, this 'bugfix' will be able to install further fixes without asking your permission. So by installing this patch you allow Microsoft to install a Digital Right Managger, that could deny you in playing your favorite mp3, just because you don't have signed it by Bill Gates to verify it is a legal copy of your "bought in a store" CD. Maybe after a few months, or in a year M$ will start to deny you to copy your home made pictures, to protect your Copyright. Maybe after a while they will download a path to IIS, to every ISP, which will deny acces of everyone who don't brovse the net useing some M$ software.

I know IIS is just a part of the net, but a big part of it.

And what about CISCO? They produce a big part of the routers used on the net. I allready have seen a Hungaryan academic site (the computer haters socitey run on an academic machine :), that have been blocked by a service called "CISCO Web Director". It was blocked just because there was some M$ joke on it. They had to change the DNS record and the IP of that server to be able to serve they academic infos. (it was the izom.bkk1.hu)

It is not conspiracy theory if we say that there is a conspiracy of the US gov, and the multinational US companies to rule every little piece of information you get. To rule your knowledge. To rule your mind.

They not just want to rule the Americans, but the whole Earth. If there were UFOs they wanted to rule them too...

Kovács János,
Magyarország

Posted by Kovács János @ 12/05/2002 11:54 AM EST

---

Geez people, do you really believe the original message above? if you do, please step back from your computer but you are accepting a load of bull shit :P (pardon my french)....

IF there are any programmers here in the room please raise your hand, if you believe the shit above, kill yourself immediatelly - that gets rid of all the dumb programmers...

So why am I flaming everyone here? because there isn't a phreaking NSA backdoor in ADVAPI, the complete headers are phreaking readable if you have a copy of Visual C 6 or .NET.. (.NET has the phreaking source AVAILABLE)...

So gee.. dont you think that if there was a secret *cough* backdoor in ADVAPI that it would not have been spotted earlier and just updated (if microsoft didn't know or even the general development community that has access to the source).

And also!... A few companies have access to the windows source code since late march.. Dont you think those people might have spotted it if it was in there?

Oh, and to the first poster: YOU ARE A DUMBASS, Reason: Blaming your own stupidity upon Microsoft employees...

Dont get me wrong tho, microsoft has done a lot of good things and bad things and majorly bad things (like developing the ISA server without some decent GUI)..

But ... please... people, Try to GET the JOKE thats on top of this page and please.. PLEASE dont delete advapi32.dll or advapi.dll (XP users, dont worry, DLLCache has a copy and it will restore it instantly)... if you do, you just shown the world how low your intelligence can be.

Thanks for your time :P

Posted by Devion @ 12/05/2002 12:13 PM EST

---

Green Lantern is the name of a Dell P4 motherboard.

Posted by Kovács János @ 12/05/2002 12:28 PM EST

---

The all-seeing eye oversees all this overseer answers the call staring straight down, keenly through

@ 6:20 and eye is upon you.

Posted by The overseer @ 12/05/2002 01:40 PM EST

---

sounds like it is a way for the NSA to take surveys of the publics common interests possibly if we look at the lesser extreme...but then on the greater, it could be a violation of the INTERNET PRIVACY act signed by Bill Clinton in 1996...seems like the act was just a show for the public, apparently law does not mean anything to the government, i quote from the Stone Sour CD "government is just another way to say better than you"

It could be a way for the NSA to gather names of people who use and distribute warez and put them on a list (god knows the gov't has millions of lists classifying everyone into minorities). This list will be kept for future refernce.....i emphasise this is merely an idea...i don't want everyone here running around crying wolf a.k.a. conspiracy...don't believe everything u read all fattys hate me. what is my secret crime? i did not eat all the food. i did not eat all the babys. did i steal the bike for exercise fun? no. it is not my fault your hand is a beefball. OH NO the bellys WANT ME ANYWAY!

Posted by Thermite @ 12/05/2002 03:27 PM EST

---

Posted by Miguel @ 12/05/2002 05:54 PM EST

---

Do you want the patch?
it is located at: <http://www.euyulio.org>

Posted by PACH @ 12/06/2002 06:44 AM EST

---

I love how Microsoft can make advanced backdoor keys integrated for government security purposes, that only Doctorates of Computer Science can decipher, but they cant make an operating system, or software worth a damn?????, anyone else find that funny?

Posted by Miggz @ 12/06/2002 09:28 AM EST

---

Johnny Wizard's post is another one of those idiotic, twisted rants which sounds as if it were composed out of letters cut from the latest issues of magazines sold at the local newstand.

What an incomprehensibly moronic flow of paranoid rhetoric!

Johnny...
You need to start taking your medication again. It's time. Be a good boy. It won't hurt. Promise.

Posted by Anti-Johnny Wizard @ 12/06/2002 10:31 AM EST

---

GET LIFE!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!1

Posted by get a life @ 12/06/2002 09:14 PM EST

---

Salutation to M$ and NSA,

I never paid for any of M$ dumb product. :)

/me waves my hand up to an NSA satelite and pulls out my middle finger. :)

/NSA satelite shoots down a laser and destroyes my middle finger.

outch! :(

No where to run, nowhere to hide.

Posted by simzag @ 12/07/2002 06:02 AM EST

---

On a lighter note does anyone know the footy scores :-)

Posted by J.D @ 12/08/2002 02:42 PM EST

---

this sux dong 4 dady cakes

Posted by your mum @ 12/09/2002 11:55 AM EST

---

Microsoft

Posted by rrattai@mb.sympatico.ca @ 12/13/2002 04:19 PM EST

---

why dont you just get a fucking mac.

problem solved. ;]

Posted by tr0ll @ 12/14/2002 08:00 PM EST

---

Getting a Mac won't keep MS,NSA, etc., out, but switching to the OpenBSD operating system (www.openbsd.org) might.

---

If you've ever licked the envelope or stamp when you've sent in your taxes, whether state, local, or federal, the government has your DNA on file as well. Also, most people are not aware of the government cameras hidden in the new streetlights (those installed in the last 10 years). Don't forget the satellites that can magnify with clear resolution down to your license plate. There was also the conspiracy with Intel to make each CPU have a unique identifier to be able to track you better. Supposedly, this is not done anymore. After all, your BIOS settings SAY it's turned off, right? And there is no way the BIOS companies could possibly be in bed with the government...

Posted by DNA @ 12/16/2002 02:46 PM EST

---

The patch for remove that microsoft trojan is located at <http://www.euyulio.org>

Posted by PACH @ 12/17/2002 08:40 AM EST

---

The patch for remove that microsoft trojan is located at <http://www.euyulio.org>

Posted by PACH @ 12/17/2002 08:41 AM EST

---

does anyone have any idea what kind of power it would take to monitor even half the computers running on the net just in the states? It would have to be one hell of a dedicated supercomputer. and for what??? maybe all this shit is true and if it is... who the fuck cares? if your fucking around and doing something stupid, you're gonna get caught. I'm not all for surveillance penetrating our privacy, but if some puke wants to walk through the back door of my computer and see some bullshit files or use my processing power to calculate whathaveyou...fuck it. find out how to use it to your advantage without harming the government (they ARE useful)or shut the fuck up.

Posted by Sling @ 12/18/2002 11:14 AM EST

---

A Convert: Mac OS X is based on BSD. Your comment is null & void.
<http://developer.apple.com/darwin/>

Posted by encro @ 12/19/2002 02:01 AM EST

---

www.zetatalk.com

Posted by bLiNd @ 12/19/2002 03:25 PM EST

